Special Ceremony To Mark Signing Of Anticrime Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a sweeping anticrime bill, and said it would give federal authorities the tools for an all-out war on the Mafia. He pledged: "We will win."

Signing the measure into law at special ceremonies at the Justice Department, Nixon said the measure also provides the means to "see that those who engage in terrorist acts will be brought to justice."

The measure, passed last week by Congress after being deadlocked for 18 months, touches on two of the major issues in this fall's campaign: the growing strength of organized criminal activities and bombings by radical groups, which are becoming a frequent occurrence.

One provision of the bill, added just last month, provides the death penalty for those convicted of fatal bombings, gives the FBI immediate jurisdiction in campus bombing incidents and makes bombing an offense for which the government can use electronic surveillance.

"It seems that every day we pick up the papers and see some sporadic incident without reason, without cause, a terroristic act that we have not been able to cope with before," Nixon said.

But civil liberties organizations didn't share the President's enthusiasm for the bill and indicated they will challenge the constitutionality of some provisions.

"The bill, although aimed at organized crime, will find its first and most widely used endeavor against militant groups, Black Panthers and others the administration considers as dissident," said Lawrence Speiser, national legislative director of the American Civil Liberties Union in an interview Wednesday night.

He claimed the legislation will not affect the crime rate, does not deal with growing street crime and reflects an "appeal to voters in this very political season."

With crime a major part of the congressional election campaign, Congress rushed the bill to the President before adjourning for November's election campaign.

Ronald Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the administration hoped the legislation would "deter such bombings in the future" as the one that hit Harvard University in a pre-dawn blast Wednesday.

The bill makes it a federal crime to bomb federal buildings, buildings rented or used by the government and build-

Egypt Seeks Urgent Debate On Mideast At U.N. Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Egypt stole the spotlight from the silver anniversary of the United Nations today with a request for an urgent debate on the Middle East as soon as the commemorative session is over.

The question is already on the General Assembly's agenda, but diplomats had hoped to avoid a public airing of the dispute between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

The commemorative session, attended by chiefs of state and government from all over the world, began Wednesday and ends Oct. 24.

The Middle East debate, requested Wednesday by Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed H. ElZayyat, is expected to get underway Oct. 26.

A U.N. spokesman also announced that the Big Four foreign ministers have accepted an invitation to dine with Secretary-General U Thant on Oct. 22 or 23 in Thant's offices. The American, British, Soviet and French diplomats are expected to discuss the Middle East and other world problems.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers was arriving today for the commemorative session. He invited Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to dinner on Friday, and Gromyko will entertain Rogers at the Soviet mission Monday night.

Rogers was to see a number of other foreign ministers during his stay in New York, including Mahmoud Riad of Egypt.

Thant set the theme of the commemorative session Wednesday with a message calling on member states to try to provide a brighter future for the one billion people in countries that have gained independence in the past quarter century.

"Squalid poverty lives side by side with overabundance on our earth," he said. "We have reached the moon but we have not reached each other."

Thant called for a fresh start toward realizing the goals of the U.N. charter.

Students, Federal Officials Slate Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of top Justice Department officials will be at Case Western Reserve University Oct. 22 to meet with student leaders and discuss ways to improve communications between the federal government and educational institutions.

The meeting is one of a series of discussions the department plans on campuses across the nation this fall.

24 Aussie Workers Die As Span Falls

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Twenty-four workmen were killed and 19 injured today when a 2,000-ton section of a bridge under construction in Melbourne fell 134 feet to the ground. Twenty-five other workmen were missing, authorities said.

The collapse halted work on what is to be Australia's largest bridge, over a mile long spanning the Yarra River in the southern part of Melbourne. Known as the West Gate Bridge, its eight lanes are expected to carry 30,000 cars and trucks daily. Completion was scheduled for next year.

Within hours of the accident, unions withdrew their men from the $47 million project and Premier Sir Henry Bolte of Victoria State ordered an investigation into the disaster.

About 70 welders were on the prefabricated steel and concrete span when it gave way and thundered down on construction sheds along the riverbank where other workers were eating their lunches.

A fire broke out, and fire engines and every available ambulance were ordered to the scene. Three huge mobile cranes were moved in to lift debris.

"The bloody thing cracked in the middle," said one of the injured welders. "I was on top of it."

Work on the bridge was halted temporarily two months ago so that its steel framework could be strengthened. This followed the collapse of part of the similarly constructed Milford Haven Bridge in Wales on June 2 in which four men died. The consulting engineering firm of Freeman Fox and Partners was employed on both projects.

Reds Reject U.S. Peace Plan Again

PARIS, (AP) — The Vietnamese Communists forcefully restated today Hanoi's rejection of President Nixon's peace plan, but U.S. Ambassador David K.E. Bruce told them he was awaiting "a more considered and constructive response."

At the same time, South Vietnam offered what a member of the delegation described as new political proposals in an attempt to break the deadlock at the Paris peace talks. It carried a hint that Saigon might accept a formula other than elections to decide South Vietnam's political future.

Bruce called the Nixon plan a set of "specific and logical proposals that should become a basis for detailed negotiations."

He reminded his adversaries: "You indicated that you would be commenting on the President's proposals more definitively at this and subsequent sessions. Today we await a more considered and constructive response."

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam told the weekly session of the Vietnam peace talks that his government "has the sincere conviction that free elections open to all political parties and groups in South Vietnam, including the National Liberation Front... would constitute the best and... most rational way for the South Vietnamese population to exercise genuinely its right of self-determination."

Typhoon Toll In Philippines Reaches 200

MANILA (AP) — The unofficial death toll from a typhoon that slammed into the Philippines reached 200 today and was expected to increase as new reports from isolated areas come in.

Late news reports from southern Luzon, hardest hit when typhoon winds of more than 400 miles an hour were recorded Tuesday, told of death and destruction.

The Manila Times received short wave radio reports from the region, about 200 miles southeast of Manila.

The Times report said at least 100,000 persons were homeless in Albay Province alone.

Government agencies earlier reported that tens of thousands were homeless in a 500-mile-long area stretching from Zamboanga Island in the deep south to Luzon Island in the north.

The Times said Naga in Camarines Sur, with a population of about 70,000, was more than half under water.

Estimates of damage to buildings, crops, roads and other facilities ran into hundreds of millions of pesos.

Government and Red Cross teams headed into the area, but the 140-mile winds and heavy rains had knocked out communications at many points.

Damage in Manila was light. The typhoon swept in from the Pacific Tuesday at about the midpoint in the Philippines' 1,000-mile-long string of islands, then slashed north across southern Luzon and out into the China Sea, brushing past densely populated Manila.

A typhoon that hit the eastern Luzon coast last month left more than 200 dead, but because of the isolation of the area it was several days before the extent of the devastation was realized.

Leaders hope to adjourn before Christmas—are eight money bills needed to run the government during the current fiscal year, and a three-year farm program which limits crop subsidies for the first time.

The sharpest fight in the lame-duck session may come in the Senate on the welfare reform proposal which the President has called his No. 1 domestic item in the 91st Congress.

The House passed the family assistance plan in April. But it long was stalled in the Senate Finance Committee before the panel voted to reject it.

Supporters of the plan say they still can win in the Senate by attaching it to a Social Security bill considered certain to pass.

However, the Social Security bill has not yet been cleared by Finance. It is entangled in a fight over restrictionist trade legislation which the committee has added as a rider. A band of free-trade senators has an-

Quebec Wavers On Demands Public Hearing On Annexation Held Wednesday

MONTREAL (AP) — Ten leading citizens of Quebec Province appealed to the provincial government today to free 23 convicted or accused terrorists to secure the release of the British trade commissioner and the provincial labor commissioner kidnapped by Quebec terrorists last week.

Negotiations between the kidnapers and the provincial government remained suspended, but one Montreal newspaper indicated that the government was wavering in its refusal to free the 23 men demanded by the kidnapers.

The statement urging the government to bow to the kidnapers' demand was read at a news conference by Rene Levesque, leader of the Quebec Separatist party. Signers included Louis Laberge, president of the 250,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor; Yves Charbonneau, president of the 65,000-member Quebec teachers' union; and Claude Ryan, publisher of the French-language newspaper Le Devoir.

The statement supported the government's appointments of a mediator to negotiate the release of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and British diplomat James Richard Cross. But it said it was urgent that the government grant the kidnapers' main demand and send the 23 prisoners and their families to Algeria or Cuba.

The kidnapers are members of the terrorist Quebec Liberation Front, or FLQ, which wants the French-speaking province of Quebec made independent from the rest of Canada. Although the Quebec Separatist party has the same goal, it is a legal party which advocates peaceful, constitutional methods.

Of the 23 men whose freedom is demanded by the FLQ, three are serving life sentences for murder, 10 are serving prison terms of varying length for robbery, bombing or other terrorist acts, two are awaiting sentence and eight are awaiting trial.

Spokesmen for the provincial and federal governments have repeatedly rejected the demand, calling instead for guarantees for the safety of Cross and Laporte as a prelude to negotiation of ransom terms. But Le Devoir reported today that the Quebec government had offered to let 21 of the prisoners leave the country, with the other two to go after the kidnaped men were freed.

Nearly 50 persons attended a public hearing in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on the annexation to the city of Circleville of Isaac and Moats Subdivisions.

Held by the board of commissioners Wednesday night, the meeting was called to give both those opposed to annexation and those favoring it an opportunity to state their opinions. Petitions containing 83 signatures have been presented to commissioners seeking annexation. There have also been petitions opposing annexation presented to commissioners.

Mrs. W. R. Gaines, 717 E. Mound St., was the spokesman for the opposition. She challenged the legality of some of the signatures on the petition.

In stating her reasons for wishing the area to remain a part of Circleville Twp., she stated the township trustees did a good job of maintaining roads and keeping the snow plowed off in the winter. Mrs. Gaines also contended the area had adequate police and fire protection.

Persons speaking in favor of annexation included Ned Dresbach, a property owner in the area; Jim Lockard, a resident; E. R. Tom Bennett, who owns two houses in the area; Clarence Boyer, Mrs. David Hill, James Peters, Dale Donner and Rev. Melvin Maxwell.

All in favor agreed that a need for city water and sewage facilities was their prime reason for annexation. Other reasons were better law enforcement, cheaper fire insurance rates.

Don Archer, Pickaway soil and water conservationist, explained why wells in the area were polluted. According to Archer, there is about two feet of soil over a gravel underbase which is the water bearing

Krupansky, Walinski Okd For Judgeships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert B. Krupansky and Nicholas J. Walinski Jr. have been approved by the Senate for federal judgeships in the northern district of Ohio.

Krupansky is the U. S. attorney in Cleveland. Walinski is a common pleas court judge in Toledo.

A militia colonel here identified them as Brazinskis Koreyev, 46, and 18-year-old son, Argedas, both Russian citizens.

Turkish press reports said the hijackers were of Jewish origin. This could not be confirmed immediately.

The Tupolev 27 plane of the government-run airline was seized 10 minutes after it took off from the Georgian town of Batumi on the eastern edge of the Black Sea for a 100-mile flight north to Sukhumi, the Trabzon deputy governor reported.

The hijackers were armed with guns and grenades. A scuffle apparently ensued aboard the plane, Turkish officials said, but what exactly happened was not clear.

Upper Levels Of Government Also Alerted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kidnap alert has been ordered in the upper levels of government and Congress with the White House warning senators and representatives they may become targets for abduction by revolutionaries.

Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, in telling of the warnings to members of Congress said he believes the only way to halt "political blackmail" before it starts is to make it a federal crime for officials to give in to it.

Saxbe commented in an interview with newsmen on the Metromedia Radio news program, "Profile."

His disclosures came shortly after a Justice Department's official told newsmen the FBI has received reports some U.S. terrorist groups may try to kidnap foreign diplomats or campaigning politicians in the style of recent political kidnappings in Canada and Latin America.

"For example," Saxbe said, "if I am picked up—and I certainly haven't been threatened—and they write in and tell some government official, 'If you don't release so and so we're going to kill Saxbe,' I think if that official thinks that criminal loose he ought to be prosecuted."

Last Thursday, tackling the problem from another direction, the Senate passed a bill making the assassination, kidnapping or assault of a member of Congress a crime.

Cleveland Firemen Face Arson Wave

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Fire broke out today in an abandoned building on Superior Avenue near East 86th Street, in an area where there were several fires Wednesday night.

Firemen reportedly were delayed in going to the scene by reports of shots being fired in the area. Police were sent to the fire to protect firemen.

Firemen fighting a fire in an abandoned 45-story apartment building in the area Wednesday night were pelted with rocks and bottles before bringing the fire under control.

It was the sixth fire in six hours around Superior Avenue. Firemen said there had been threats that Superior would be extensively damaged by fire between East 85th and East 100th streets.

Firemen and police blamed a gang of youths for a fire earlier in the evening. Eighth Battalion Chief Ronald Sobie said that while firemen were fighting a fourth-floor fire in a partially occupied apartment building a gang of vandals ran through the second and third floors setting fire to rubbish and furniture.

Police had the apartment building under surveillance because of threats to firebomb the building.

Two families who lived in the building were evacuated. Other occupants already had left the building in protest over rent hikes, police said.

Out-Of-Staters Get Abortions

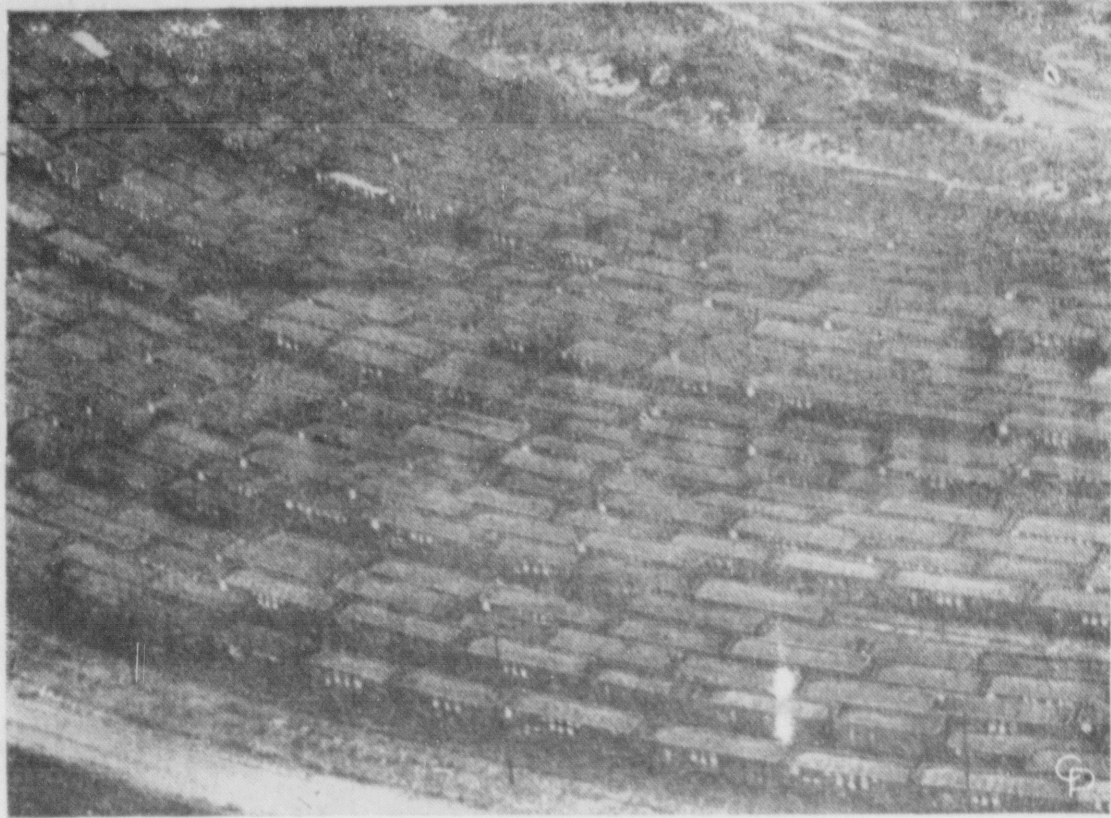

NEW YORK (AP) — The Health Services Administration said Wednesday that about 10 per cent of the 11,751 abortions reported in the city in the first 10 weeks of the new liberalized law were performed on women from other states.

Neighboring New Jersey led the list, accounting for 20 per cent of the out-of-state patients, but women by the hundreds also came from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Florida, Michigan, Ohio.

The figures for the number of abortions came from termination-of-pregnancy certificates filed with the City Health Department between July 1 and Sept. 11. Many doctors have not yet reported operations performed in their offices and municipal hospitals have also been slow in reporting.

President Sees Coexistence With Russia As Top Priority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite talk of an intensified cold war, President Nixon fears a "new isolationism" at home and plans an effort to reach a live-and-let-live agreement with the Soviet Union.

His idea, while acknowledging his actions in public life have stamped him a strong anti-Communist, is to seek a coexistence working to the mutual benefit of the United States and Russia.

A the same time, Nixon believes weariness after 25 years of shoudering global burdens may be turning the American people toward isolation, which he feels would be a mistake.

Otherwise, according to his thinking—and he has an inkling

Moscow might agree—a U.S. retreat to homebase would leave the world by 1995 with only two superpowers—The Soviet Union and Red China because no non-Communist nation could fill the void.

Nixon is of the view the Soviets would prefer quite a different world in 1995, a world in which the United States would continue its global role but one in which Moscow and Washington would avoid direct confrontation.

Still, the chief executive feels competition will continue between the two nations and differences now are so deep and profound they cannot be bridged by their leaders smiling, shaking hands or coming to know each other better at a summit conference.

With these thoughts in mind, Nixon is preparing a major address on Oct. 23 before the U.N. General Assembly.

It could well be he will make a direct appeal to the Soviets to coexist in peace—a move that in a sense would bypass the machinery of the international organization.

While he believes the U.N. can be a useful vehicle for settling difficulties between some of the smaller nations, it cannot be used to head off disputes between the superpowers.

The United States and the Soviet Union, he is convinced, would never submit their fates to the vote of more than 100 countries.

Instead, what is needed, he feels, is a resolve on each side to find areas of common agreement while avoiding a potential nuclear apocalypse.

Equal Rights Amendment Seen Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The equal rights amendment that has been knocking around Congress for 47 years apparently is dead, and key Senate supporters are abandoning it in favor of a new proposal to prevent discrimination against women.

The proposed constitutional amendment, introduced first in 1923, achieved its greatest victory last August when the House bypassed its Judiciary Committee and approved it by a 350-15 vote after an hour's debate.

But in the Senate Wednesday, even though 81 senators were listed as sponsors, it apparently came to the end of the line.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who spearheaded the fight for the House-approved amendment, said it is obvious the Senate is not going to pass it.

Bayh was joined by Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., and others in offering a substitute proposal—a constitutional amendment applying the equal protection clause in the 14th Amendment to sex.

It provides: "Neither the United States nor any state shall, on account of sex, deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Bayh said it would "ensure equal protection of the laws to those who have been discriminated against on account of sex, while recognizing the need for a flexible standard in cases where different treatment under the law may be justified."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has led the fight against the House-passed amendment, said the substitute proposal "would go a long way toward retaining the protective legislation which the states and the federal government have enacted for the benefit of women."

A single shrimp may produce more than a million eggs. But most of the billions of larva spawned each year never reach adulthood. In their early stages they survive unless food floats to them, and they are food for every thing that swims — including older shrimp.

Earlier this week, William C. Sullivan, a top assistant to FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover and a former head of the bureau's domestic intelligence branch, said "several anarchist groups reportedly have plans to kidnap government officials."

As an agent to such speculation, strong and vigilant security forces ringed the United Nations headquarters in New York Wednesday as diplomats gathered for the U.N.'s 25th anniversary session.

The unusually strong security forces were believed called out because of the possibility of kidnap attempts and other possible incidents.

The last provision opens up most college campuses to FBI investigators when bombs go off.

Besides the death penalty, the legislation provides 20-year sentences for causing injury through terrorist bombs and ten years for taking part in bombings.

The bill gives the government new and expanded powers to combat racketeering and crime syndicates.

Other antimob sections of the legislation beef up procedures that force witnesses to testify, increase protection for witnesses in attempts to keep them from being intimidated or killed, ease use in court of evidence obtained by wire-tapping and establish special grand juries with powers to probe and report on organized crime activities.

One provision strikes at interstate gambling operations and at the infiltration of legitimate businesses by racketeers.

Speiser said the antiorganized crime provisions were based on erroneous theories disproved in the past that if "you free the police from constitutional limitations . . . or make it easier to convict persons . . . or provide stiff sentences, this will affect the crime rate."

On the antibombing penalties, he said:

"At a time when capital punishment is pretty well accepted as being on the wane by the courts, legislators and the people, you have the Nixon administration according to the worst fears of the populace."

Speiser said the ACLU would challenge provisions of the legislation "as soon as the opportunity arises."

Stock List Posts Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, demonstrating some basic underlying strength, posted modest gains today in slow trading.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 4.32 points to 767.05.

Advances broadened their lead over declines to about 3 to 2 among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market appeared to be technically sound but that it might take some encouraging news to bring more investors into the market. They said many investors remained on the sidelines awaiting a trend in third-quarter earnings reports.

Oil stocks were among the most active issues today.

On the Big Board Gulf Oil was up 1/2 to 29 1/2; Atlantic Richfield was ahead 1/4 at 57 1/4; Texaco was up 1/4 at 33 1/2; Standard Oil of New Jersey was up 1/4 at 69 1/4; and Amerada Hess was up 1/4 at 40.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.7 to 262.1 at noon, with industrials ahead 2.1, rails ahead 1.6 and utilities up .2.

U.S. Curbs Air Strike In All Areas Except Laos

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force is scaling down bombing raids across South Vietnam while maintaining pressure on North Vietnamese supply routes in Laos, informed sources reported today.

American air attacks in Vietnam on suspected North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions and in support of allied ground troops in battle have dropped off by as much as 70 per cent since the big enemy offensives in 1968, the sources said.

The main reason, the sources said, is that the war has escalated into small clashes, with few large concentrations of enemy troops to be found.

Another factor is that American forces are disengaging from the war in line with President

Nixon's Vietnamization policy, and the South Vietnamese air force is flying more sorties.

The U.S. 7th Air Force has been reduced by about 200 fighter-bombers since January, more than half the fleet it had in Vietnam, as part of Nixon's withdrawal program. It now has about 175 fighter-bombers at four bases in South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese air force has increased about 200 planes and helicopters since January and now totals about 600.

In January 1968, the South Vietnamese air force flew 13 per cent of all sorties in South Vietnam; last month the Vietnamese share was about 25 per cent.

The 7th Air Force's new commander, Gen. Lucius D. Clay Jr., has ordered changes in tactics to eliminate bombing raids against targets of questionable value. Informed sources said this also is reducing activity.

The sources said the Air Force has been flying from 100 to 300 sorties a day in Laos, a sortie being one flight by one plane. The rate goes down during the monsoon season and increases sharply during the dry season, which is on now.

In Cambodia, U.S. bombers have been flying "considerably less than 50 sorties a day in recent weeks," one source said.

The U.S. Strategic Air Command's B52 bombers few heavy strikes today against the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos for the seventh consecutive day. About 30 of the big jets dropped some 900 tons of bombs on trails and transfer points in the continuing campaign to hamper the movement of North Vietnamese war materials toward Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Russia, Red China And U.S. All Touch Off Atomic Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Big Three atomic powers have set off nuclear blasts on the same day, apparently for the first time, unleashing forces equivalent to more than nine million tons of TNT.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Communist China had resumed nuclear testing with a 3-million-ton atmospheric blast. That followed by about an hour Wednesday what apparently was the largest Soviet underground nuclear explosion in seven years and the most potent subterranean blast ever triggered by any nation.

The AEC said the United States also set off an underground blast rated equivalent to 20,000 to 200,000 tons of TNT. The AEC declined comment on the significance of the Chinese detonation.

But Japanese observers speculated the test was part of Peking's plan to develop a small hydrogen bomb capable of use in a missile. China launched its first space satellite last April 23, and there were predictions the initial test of an intercontinental missile would come this year.

The AEC said the Chinese blast was conducted in the atmosphere over the Lop Nor test site. Mainland China did not sign the 1963 limited test-ban treaty barring testing in the air.

The blast was the fourth Chinese explosion rated in the three-megaton category, and the nation's 11th since it began nuclear testing Oct. 16, 1964.

Following an announced explosion 13 months ago, Peking's official news agency said the "great encouragement and support" for North Vietnamese and other nations fighting against "U.S. aggression" and for independence.

However, the announcement added, "At no time and in no circumstances will China be the first to use nuclear weapons."

The AEC said seismic signals indicated the Soviet blast was the equivalent of 6 million tons of TNT — largest since the test-ban treaty became effective.

The test was the sixth by the Soviet Union this year and the 13rd since August 1963.

The largest underground blast ever triggered by the United States was estimated at 1.2 megatons. The biggest nuclear explosion was a 15-megaton atmospheric blast set off by the United States Feb. 23, 1954.

GE Develops New Lamp

Development of a small, compact electric light source whose spectrum matches the color of noonday sunlight was announced by Robert F. Corning, General Electric vice president and general manager of the Company's Lamp Division.

The new light, named the molecular arc lamp, represents a significant breakthrough in the chemistry of high intensity discharge light sources and is the first time that tin chloride has been used successfully as a lamp ingredient.

Although scientists have long recognized the importance of metal chloride in producing light with a continuous spectrum, at previous attempts to develop an operating lamp have failed because of rapid deterioration of the tungsten electrodes. A team of General Electric scientists headed by Dr. D. M. Speros have overcome this problem while producing a lamp that will give off about four times as much light as the ordinary 100-watt bulb and also will keep practically all its full intensity throughout its life.

The lamp which can be operated off the usual 100-volt circuit will eventually find wide use in street lighting and in commercial and industrial installations. No estimate could be made of when the new molecular arc lamp would be ready for production. "Presently, we are determining the basic design parameters for this developmental lamp to assure optimum performance when it does become available. The development of a practical lamp which performs as well in the field as it does in the laboratory often requires two to three years, or more of additional work," Corning concluded.

Cloud Aides Want Help From Agnew

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud's campaign people are trying to bring Vice President Spiro Agnew to Ohio to prod GOP voters to the polls election day.

They say they're afraid Republicans discouraged by the statehouse loan scandal and polls showing Democrats ahead might just stay home Nov. 3.

"Agnew would be the person who could get them out to vote," a Cloud aide said.

The plan is to get the Vice President to plane-hop to several middle-sized cities in normally Republican areas.

President Nixon is coming to Columbus Monday in an effort to bolster the candidacy of U.S. Senate candidate Robert Taft Jr., as well as other Republicans on the state ticket.

He will speak at a rally, the site for which has not been definitely determined yet.

Mrs. Georgia Sweet — 869-2462

Mrs. Nettie Kilpatrick is a patient in Madison Elms Nursing Home at London. She would be happy to hear from her friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rowland were dinner guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Kunz at the Terrace Plaza. The rest of the evening was spent visiting in the Kunz home at 45 Grove City Rd.

Sunday afternoon callers at the Archie Sweet home were Jerry Brown and Herbert Strayer of Mechanicsburg who is the new manager of the Landmark Co. in Derby. The Strayers plan to move to this area soon. He has been employed as manager of the Mechanicsburg branch of the Ohio Grain Co. prior to that he managed the Plain City, Mechanicsburg, and Lippincott branches of the Nau Grain Co. and was branch manager of Logan County Farm Bureau in Bellefontaine.

Mr. Strayer is a member of the United Methodist Church there, member of Lion's Club, and Sunday School Superintendent. They have two grown children, a daughter Claudia who is an OSU grad and presently an interior designer in Cleveland, and a son, Douglas, also an OSU grad, currently serving in Vietnam.

Butler County Suit Threatened

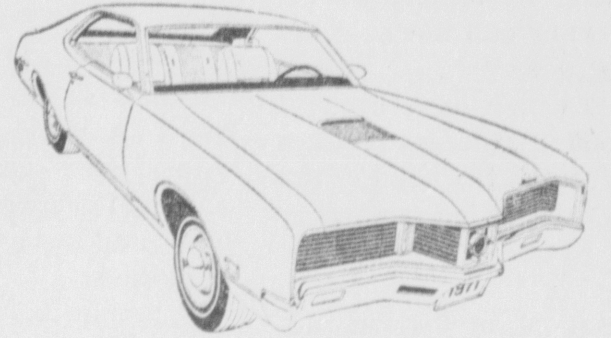

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ross Township Improvement Association threatened Monday night to file legal action if steps are not taken within seven days to halt what it says is pollution of the underground water table in southwestern Butler County.

Approximately 200 persons attended a meeting at nearby Ross Monday night but county officials, who had been invited, did not show up.

The association claims the pollution is coming from a sludge dump of the Champion Paper Co. and a privately - operated landfill.

Power Answer Missing

Power shortages and threats of shortages have brought home the point the power industry cannot increase its output of electricity as simply as the individual homeowner can increase demand by flipping a switch.

But the reasons which have brought about the present predicament in a wide area — one which the head of the Federal Power Commission says may continue for five years — still are not apparent.

Power requirements have risen rapidly in the last several years, nuclear power plants are not coming into production as rapidly as expected, and fuel shortages have developed both internally and externally. But the problem is more complicated than these factors would indicate.

Perhaps little can be done overnight to relieve the shortage of heavy fuel oils used in large buildings and generating plants. Ninety-four per cent of this type of oil comes from overseas, where supplies have been disrupted by the war in the Mideast and a shortage of tankers.

But one of the nation's largest electricity producers, the Tennessee Valley Authority, is running short of coal, and that is largely a domestic fuel. The TVA usually tries to maintain a 30 to 75 days' reserve of coal, but last year the average fell to 29 days' reserve, and at the present time is down to 11 days.

Beginning in 1965, energy demand has increased from the long standing growth rate of 3 per cent annually to 5 per cent, and since 1968 has been averaging 5.6 per cent. Yet the excuse is still offered that the surge in power demand was not foreseen and plant expansion has been insufficient to meet the increased demand, and may remain deficient for five years or longer.

A utility, to fulfill its mission, needs flexibility to meet the unexpected. All the evidence continues to point to a rigid inflexibility in the power industry.

Laff-A-Day

"At least YOUR wife is intelligent. Mine doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SUNDAY fisherman was hauled into court and fined ten dollars for catching a dozen more black bass than the law allowed. "Do you have anything to say?" queried the magistrate. "Yes, Your Honor," pleaded the fisherman. "Can you give me six copies of the court record to show my wife and friends?"

The recent bankruptcy proceedings initiated against the mighty Penn Central Railroad reminded one Wall Street veteran of the 1929 crash story of the lad who begged his father for a toy railroad set. The father looked up despairingly from the evening stock market report and murmured, "Wait another few days, and I'll buy you the New York Central!"

Another classic of those gloomy depression days concerned the now-defunct Saturday Evening Post, which, in the boom before the break, sometimes carried as many as 200 pages of advertisements. Then came the debacle, after which one suburbanite reported, "I finally realized what a recession like this meant. Yesterday my current copy of the Saturday Post blew off the porch!"

Bill Emerson's tangy tales about his early days in Bottom Dollar, Tennessee, include the day his uncle trundled him to the village postoffice "to learn how to hang around," and the enforced postponement of his Aunt Sina's funeral because the same post-office lost the special delivery letter that contained her ashes.

Charles Lindbergh

By JEFFREY HART

Naturally, the publication of Charles A. Lindbergh's wartime journals has provoked a great outcry. The point is that World War II has always been a gratifying event to the liberal sensibility: there was history as it really ought to be, democracies fighting against persecutors and book-burners — the confrontation was ideal. And to cap it all off, in a sort of climax to the old Popular Front, there were fighting side by side with the plucky Soviets. Marvelous.

And so when Lindbergh's journals appeared, once again raising World War II as an issue, the New York Times actually went so far as to run an editorial in rebuttal; and the reviews have generally been acerbic.

For Lindbergh has not changed his mind since, thirty years ago, he viewed the outbreak of war with horror, and considered the war "catastrophic for our civilization." In retrospect he observes that "In order to defeat Germany and Japan we supported the still greater menaces of Russia and China."

The British Empire has broken down, with great suffering, bloodshed, and confusion. Much of our Western culture was lost... the Soviets have dropped their iron curtain to screen off Europe." Lindbergh still thinks that Britain and France should not have gone to war, and that America, above all, should have stayed out.

The argument remains an interesting one. Certainly Adolf Hitler was a fanatic, and possibly crazy, but had it been our policy to go to war over the character of foreign rulers we should long before 1939 have been at war with Stalin. William F. Buckley Jr., meditating on Lindbergh's journal, writes that we were justified in going to war in order to save the European Jews; but our going to war does not seem to have helped them much — indeed, there is every reason to think that the war accelerated the extermination program. During the 1930s many Jews did succeed in emigrating, but not during the war.

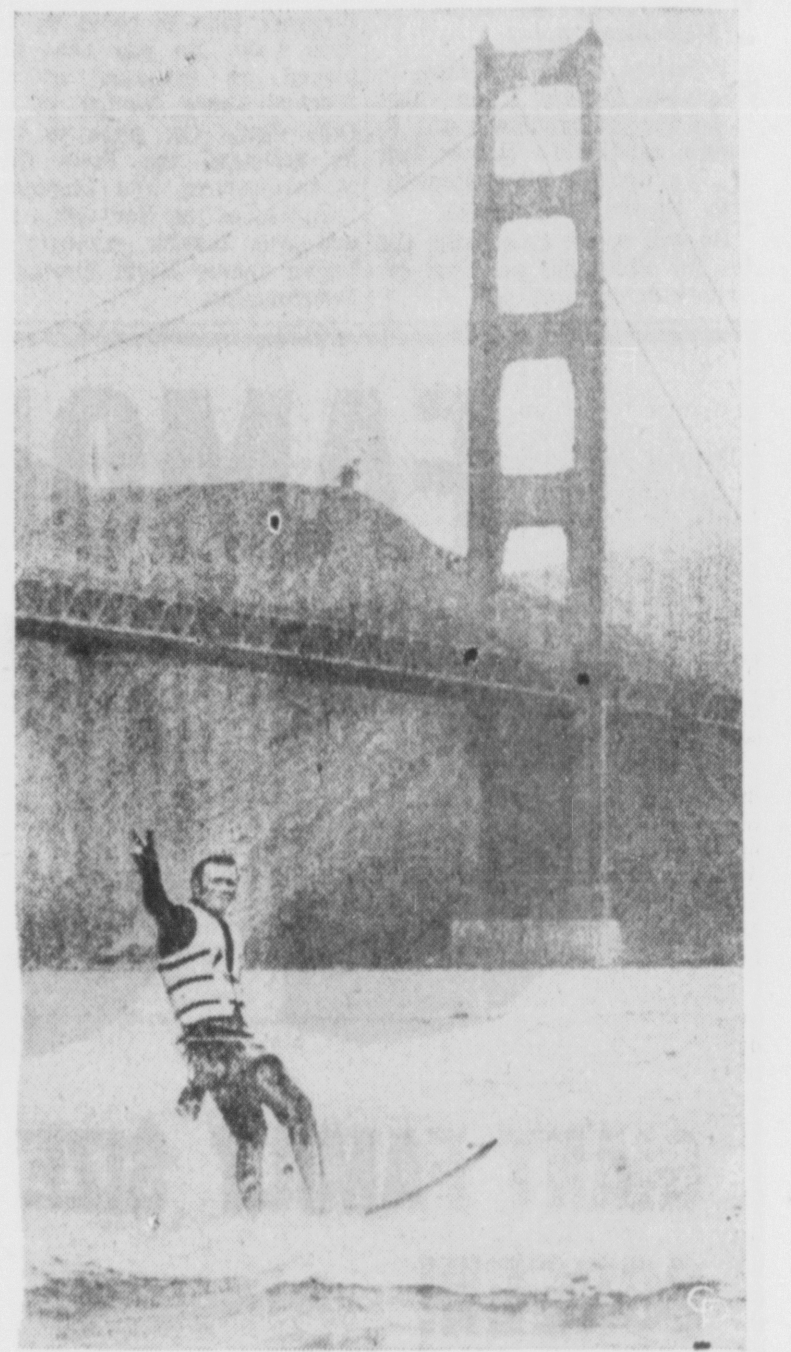

Historical judgments are infinitely tricky, but it seems very possible that Britain and France blundered when they went to war over the Polish issue in 1939. Everything we now know suggests that the Germans planned to move east, not west. As A. J. P. Taylor has shown, they lacked the capacity for a two-front war. In The Breaking Wave, his definitive study of the Luftwaffe Telford Talor shows that Hitler's air force was designed for close support of troops, and totally lacked the long-range fighters and bombers necessary for a cross-Channel campaign against England.

In his recently published memoirs, Albert Speer records that the principal Nazis were flabbergasted when Britain and France declared war, for they could do nothing to save Poland, and, strategically, the thrust into Poland was clearly a prelude to an invasion of Russia, not France. The Soviets themselves agreed: again and again they charged that the democracies were scheming to turn Germany against the Communists. It seemed a rational policy. Speer recalls that during the opening phases in the Russian vastness, the war Hitler ordered the army to remain strictly on the defensive in the west; he refused to authorize a U-boat attack on the French battleship Dunkerque; he thought that Britain and France had declared war to save face but that "soon, the whole business will evaporate."

To be sure, if Britain and France had sat on their hands, Hitler might have conquered Russia and then turned west. Still, it seems more likely that he would have been bogged down for a long time to come in the Russian vastness. Meanwhile, the democracies could have become well enough armed to forestall an attack upon them.

In the end, I suppose, the question remains: was it worthwhile to fight a war to bring down Hitler, who in any case would not live forever, and at the same time ensure an enormous Soviet advance westward and the apparently permanent division of Europe, the economic and strategic enfeeblement of Britain? The answer is not so clear as Lindbergh's critics suppose.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Can American business on its own transform its goals to meet demands for better air and water, for safe streets, efficient mass transit and better education and health? Or is legislation needed?

Having served as president and vice chairman of Ford Motor Company, and as the present dean of Stanford University's Graduate School of Business, Arjay Miller qualifies to suggest an answer. That is it. "Business must recognize that it cannot meet new consumer demands in the public goods area by working alone, and that a high degree of government participation is necessary."

Miller, in a speech prepared for a meeting today of The Conference Board, illustrates the difficulties facing a company that attempts to provide an answer to a public problem, in this case, safety.

On its own initiative, Miller relates, Ford introduced its 1956 models through an advertising campaign in which the major element was an emphasis on newly designed safety features.

Customers didn't respond to the campaign. Sales were lower than anticipated, creating an intolerable competitive situation. And so, Miller states, there was "a predictable shift in advertising away from safety."

It wasn't until congressional hearings led to legislation establishing safety standards that all producers and buyers started to accept, says Miller, that progress was made on the issue of safety.

Now, he maintains, the pressure for clean air and water demands that government set precise standards. "For any program to be fully effective," he states, "compliance must not be a matter of option."

Some people might believe this rather unusual thinking for a man who spent 22 years in the automotive industry, and who only in the past year or so left it for the academic world. Especially so since that industry is now wrestling with what it believes are harsh government standards.

Not at all. More so than others, businessmen today recognize that the great environmental issues of the day demand that government standards be applied. But what person or institution encourages restrictions on its activities?

In this sense, business is no different than other. It concedes that the issues are pressing and must be resolved. It knows what must be done to resolve them. It even is anxious to begin; but it fears its competitor won't.

The answer, obviously, is that standards must be set and obeyed by all. This, however, means that some agency must set and enforce the standards, and that agency, in all probability, must be the government.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My right breast was removed because of a cancer that I had discovered myself. After treatment with X-ray was completed, I was told that the danger period would be five years. I have managed to survive for four but I doubt that I can manage the steady build-up of pressure that is occurring now. Can you tell me the meaning of persistent swelling of the arm?

Mrs. W.R., New York

Dear Mrs. R.: This is a rather touchy subject to me because I have a deep seated resentment about the attitude that says, "If you have survived a cancer for five years, you are safe." Does anyone really believe that you can wake every morning, examine yourself for a recurrence of a breast tumor and live in a world of despondent expectancy for five years and still hang on to your emotional sanity? This is an utterly impossible demand made on the sensitive, frightened mind of one who has had a cancer operation.

How much wiser it would be to have a patient assured that their operation was successful and that the only observation would be done by the quiet, assuring and emotionally aware doctor who performed the surgery.

A condition known as iatrogenic disease is derived from the Greek words iatros (doctor) and genic (created by). It is unfortunate that the doctor inadvertently can be responsible for inducing so much fear and anxiety that lives long after a complex disease is totally cured. Often this is done unwittingly and in what is considered to be the "best interests" of the patient.

It is utterly impossible to expect that you can go along, sitting on the proverbial "Keg of dynamite" and teetering on the brink of destruction and still be left with any semblance of sanity at the time you are "officially" considered to be cured.

After palpitatingly waiting for five years, it is too much to expect that your emotional stability can survive such unnecessary pressures.

Recovery must not be a race against time. This is too much competition for any human being to withstand. You have had your disease, you have been cured of it, and now rejoice in the fact that as of this moment, you are well.

The prophecy of time can only be confusing, especially when the measurement of it is so vague, both for the patient and for the physician. Relish your present health but do not measure your happiness in terms of imposed "survival years." This is a false, unsound measuring device.

The swelling of your arm is frequently associated with the removal of lymph glands at the time of surgery. It usually persists for a long time. You will benefit from discussion about it with your doctor.

Reduce noise levels in schools and factories.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

Rains tapered off over Ohio Wednesday night and ended in the western counties with only drizzle and light showers continuing in parts of the east this morning. Cooler air following a cold front dropped temperatures over most of the state.

Early morning readings ranged from the mid and upper 40s in the northwestern counties to the low 60s in the southeast corner of the state.

Partial clearing and diminishing winds tonight will see temperatures dropping into the 30s over a large portion of the state. The most likely area for frost will be the west central and inland northwest zones where frost warnings have been issued.

High pressure now centered over the western plains will drift eastward during the next few days bringing mostly fair skies and a moderating trend over the weekend.

FORECASTS

NORTHWEST INLAND, WEST CENTRAL —Frost warning tonight. Fair and cold tonight with frost likely, lows in the low and mid 30s. Partly cloudy and cool Friday highs in the low and mid 50s. Outlook for Saturday, fair and not quite as cool.

CENTRAL AND SOUTHWEST —Partly cloudy and cooler tonight with a chance of scattered frost, lows in the mid and upper 30s. Friday, partly cloudy and cool, highs in the 50s. Outlook for Saturday, fair and not quite as cool.

SOUTHEAST —Partly cloudy and cooler tonight, lows in the upper 30s and low 40s. Partly cloudy and cool Friday, highs in the mid and upper 50s. Outlook for Saturday, fair and not quite as cool.

Rule University Must Refund Part Of Tuition For Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—A judge has awarded the father of a New York University student a partial tuition refund of $277.40 because the school canceled classes for 19 days during campus unrest last May.

Judge Patrick J. Picariello, making the award Wednesday in Small Claims Court to Roger Paynter, a fireman from Queens, declared:

"College administrators have yielded too easily to the demands of campus dissidents and have thereby ushered in an era of physical and intellectual intimidation."

The university, a private institution, said it would appeal the ruling.

Paynter, 49, who said he had been refused a refund when he first approached the university, sued on behalf of his son Raymond, 19, now an art education sophomore. He brought the action on grounds that by failing to provide classes for his son the school violated its contractual obligations.

Paynter commented afterwards: "I'm not out to get NYU. I was only fighting for the principle." He said the decision "could represent a test case... After all, thousands of students all over the country were denied classes last year. This could open the floodgates."

The student strike, which affected many campuses in the nation, followed the dispatch of U.S. troops into Cambodia and the shooting of four students during a confrontation with the National Guard at Kent State University.

"If some students want to stay out, that's their prerogative," Paynter said. "But let the other students go to school."

The judge, in a seven-page decision, strongly assailed the disturbances on campuses. He noted that "there was no testimony or other evidence that the plaintiff's son participated... in any wise in such conduct."

"There can be no substitute for the acceptance of responsibility for order and discipline on campuses by college administrators and college faculties," Picariello asserted.

"This is not accomplished by canceling classes and closing down school facilities."

AME Church Conference Is Conducted

Pastor Mary Lou Henderson of St. Paul's AME Church attended the South Ohio Annual Conference at Lockland last week.

Discussion was held concerning the place the AME Church should take in world affairs. The bishops, pastors and laymen have united to work together for human relations. Education for youth was stressed so they can then create a better world.

Choirs from churches in the Dayton and Cincinnati districts presented a program on Youth Night, depicting the background of the AME Church. The choir of 100 members from Wilberforce University closed the week long sessions with a song fest.

The Circleville pastorate was left open until the close of the Ohio Conference in Columbus Oct. 14-18, at Greter Bethel AME Church on Cleveland Ave.

Colder Air Moves In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An eastward flow of cold air brought crisp temperatures to the nation's midlands today.

The Weather Bureau issued freeze warnings for parts of Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas.

Moist cool air brought snow to the eastern slope of the Rockies in southern Colorado and northern New Mexico.

By early morning, new snow measured up to 6 inches in the mountains west of Denver and 1 to 3 inches southward into northern New Mexico.

Scattered showers or thunderstorms dampened parts of the Northeast and Southeast, sections of the Ohio Valley and some areas of northern Arkansas and Kansas.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 18 at Rawlins, Wyo., to 79 at Cocoa, Fla.

GALION, Ohio (AP)—The strikebound Galion North Electric Co. said Wednesday it is closing two plants here and a warehouse in Ontario, leaving about 800 people without jobs.

A company spokesman said picket line violence, vandalism and alleged production slowdowns before the strike began led to the decision.

A third plant here, employing 1,200 and not affected by the strike, will remain in operation, the spokesman said.

Tri-Plains Service Unit Reports Scouting Events

Mrs. Ginni Sherman, Mrs. Margaret Curry and Mrs. Bonnie Neal of Walnut Twp. attended the 1970 Adult Girl Scout weekend Camp-o-ree at Camp Molly Lauman near Portsmouth. The annual event was held in September with about 75 women in attendance.

The camp-o-ree gives leaders from all over the State of Ohio Girl Scout Council a chance to share ideas or problems with other leaders. Training workshops are provided to teach skills available in the Girl Scout Program.

Girl Scout Troop 238 met recently for the rededication, investiture and Fly-Up ceremony. Trina Henson was invested into Girl Scouting. Fly-Ups from Brownies were Tammy Conley, Terry Conley, Christine Dillon, Linda Hardbarger, Cheryl Norris, Ellen Rayburn and Tammy Wiley.

Rededicating themselves were Beth Jones, Kathy Kuhn, Carol Nevin, Kay Hardbarger, Florie Mesner, Bonnie Tussing and Cheryl Williams.

Troop camper badges were awarded to Kay Hardbarger, Trina Henson, Beth Jones, Florie Mesner and Carol Nevin. Following the ceremonies, the girls served refreshments to their mothers, brothers and sisters.

Pumpkins, tall and short, fat and skinny, were picked by 13 Brownies during Brownie Troop 975's visit to a pumpkin patch recently. After a hike through the woods they built a fire and roasted hot dogs and toasted marshmallows. The girls gathered pretty rocks, sticks, leaves and nuts which they will use in making a Pumpkin Show display at the courthouse.

Tarleton WSCS Completes Bazaar Plans

Women's Society of Christian Service of Tarleton United Methodist Church met Wednesday afternoon in the social room of the church.

The song used to open the meeting was "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?" For devotion, Mrs. James Daft read an article entitled "He Went That Way," followed with prayer. Members then sang "Take Time To Be Holy."

Mrs. Lloyd Spung, president, presided at the business session. Final plans were made for the tea and bazaar to be held Thursday, Nov. 12 at 1:30 p.m. For the fall project the society has calendars, plaques and napkins for sale.

Mrs. Letha Murray was welcomed as a new member and Mrs. Daft contributed to the birthday fund. The society will give its usual mission pledge and will send a Christmas gift of money to the Korean orphan it supports.

Hostess, Mrs. John Kerns, served refreshments to 15 members and eight guests at tables decorated with colorful arrangements of fall flowers.

Patrol Leader Workshop Held

Patrol leaders and an assistant patrol leader of Girl Scout Troop 1132 journeyed to Logan, on Saturday afternoon. There they participated in a Patrol Leader's Workshop under the direction of Mrs. Richard McClintock of Lancaster. Patrol leaders from Logan and Ashville were also in attendance.

Girl Scouts are a democratic organization and the duties and responsibilities of elected patrol leaders were discussed. Methods to involve all members in the patrol meeting were suggested. Girls attending were Kathy Uland, Debbie Reser, Elizabeth Shallenberger, Vicki Van Dyke and Amy Curtiss. Mrs. William Curtiss accompanied the Scouts.

Teresa Brown, Gerald Rife Plan To Wed

MISS TERESA BROWN

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown, Columbus, announce the engagement of their daughter, Teresa Ann, to Gerald Lynn Rife, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Rife, Ashville.

Miss Brown is a graduate of Ohio State University and is employed as a secretary by Gold Circle Stores, Columbus. Her fiancé is a graduate of Franklin University and is employed as assistant manager of Landmark in Circleville. He is a member of the Air National Guard, Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The wedding will be an event of April, 1971.

Fellowship Installs New Officers

Installation of officers was conducted during the Tuesday evening meeting of Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren. The session was hosted by Mrs. Paul Walters in her home 132 W. Union St., with 15 members and two guests attending.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Clyde Albaugh using Psalm 24 and a reading, "Words I Live By."

Decorations of a window for Pumpkin Show was discussed. A work day at the church will be held Nov. 3. Members will sew on baby quilts and count labels. A bazaar is being planned for December.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Clarence Boyer. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be Nov. 10 in the home of Mrs. Gene Welsh, 222 Mingo St.

Needlecraft Renaissance Yields Creativity, Clothes

By SUSAN EVERLY Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Granny crocheted doilies for armchairs. Today her granddaughter whips up crocheted bikinis and needlepoint pillows espousing "Love" and "Peace."

Needlecraft has come a long way from its "Home Sweet Home" sampler past. Women of all ages today are stitching, hooking, crocheting and weaving with a fervor that has caused department store needlecraft centers to enlarge and small needlecraft boutiques to sprout up all over the city.

For the young, the needlecraft renaissance offers a chance to create something of their own and a cheap way to have up-to-the-minute fashion.

All last winter, girls sat on city buses and subways crocheting an almost endless variety and number of wool vests. With the warm weather, the needles began turning out bikinis.

The scant suits take only a few hours, a couple of ounces of yarn costing about $3, and a basic crocheting skill. To do it with a kit costs about $6, but the finished product in a department store or boutique goes for up to $40.

Other women are stitching bright wool flowers into crewel work that can be fashioned into a pillow, a chairback or a wall hanging.

— or knotting, seafarer style, what appears to be venetian blind cord into macramé belts, bracelets, chokers and vests — or learning florentine embroidery, Bargello, which dates back to the time of the Crusades.

— or weaving straw on miniature looms for skirts, handbags, and hats.

Crewel work with an emphasis on bright colors and geometric designs is the frontrunner in popularity, says Elizabeth Cromwell, needlework buyer for Altman's Department Store here.

Many women depart from the traditional flower needlepoint patterns to sew more contemporary designs fashioned with love or peace or a dove or peace sign — many from original handpainted canvases.

Mrs. Cromwell explained it was necessary for the industry to modernize to keep the new booming generation of needleworkers happy with bright colors, exciting designs, and heavy yarns. The result, she said, is that stores cannot keep the shelves stocked with enough materials.

Altman's reports that needlework sales are growing at a rate three times that of the store in general, that the sale of crewel kits has doubled in 1970 over last year, and that the sale of yarn and canvas, for original work, has tripled over the same period. The store expects an even greater yarn sale boom this fall and winter.

"Needlecraft is not too expensive and people like to say 'I did it myself — it's something I created,'" said Mrs. Cromwell, who added she has done needlework since she was five years old.

"Why it even appeals to people's interest in what is around them ecology," Mrs. Cromwell said. Animals, frogs, bugs, and beetles are all popular subjects for a needlework canvas, she said.

For beginners, needlecraft kits for pin cushions or eye glasses cases cost under $2. For there are kits for elaborate tapestry-like wall hangings or rugs which can sell for several hundred dollars.

Others, such as Marsha Kaplan, 18, a physical education major at Adelphi University, shun commercial kits. Miss Kaplan, who also makes her own clothes, said she purchased only linen napkins and thread and yarn and created her own patterns. "Animals or just designs," she said.

The long-haired college student said her latest project was a sampler with a favorite quotation. "Be still and let the wind speak; hush the world is talking."

Girl Scouts Attend Punch, Theater Party

On Saturday evening the girls of Cadette Scout Troop 1132 enjoyed a Punch and Theater Party. They met at the home of their leader, Mrs. William Curtiss, for punch and cookies which were prepared by girls who are working towards the Hostess Badge. They then proceeded to Memorial Hall for the Roundtown Payer's Production of "Blithe Spirit."

Girls attending were Suzanne Herel, Debra Woodward, Vicki Van Dyke, Joni Foster, Sheryl Hatfield, Kathy Uland, Leslie Pettit, Lisa Leahy, Polly Huffman, Amy Curtiss, Kathy Johnson, Carolyn Tammany, Leslie Ried, Barbara Brackett, Penny Connell, Donna Milburn, Elizabeth Shallenberger, Vicki Ross, Janet Kirkman, Debbie Resler, Tammy Davis and Amy Woods. They were escorted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ried and Mr. and Mrs. William Curtiss.

NO COVER-UP is this midi offered by designer Donald Brooks at a showing in New York. A "bathing suit dress," it's called.

Staple Louisiana Yams Highlight Celebration

When the fall chill bites the air, it's usually a sign for homemakers to move the kitchen back indoors, return to oven cooking and shop for fresh vegetable favorites that are again in season.

The Louisiana yam, one of America's most popular vegetables is returning to markets this month in great abundance. Down in Opelousas, Louisiana, this weekend, hardworking Cajun farmers will be celebrating the successful yam harvest with their 25th annual Yambilee.

Festivities will include a yam auction, selection of the State Champion Yam Cook, and the crowning of the Yambilee Queen.

Our celebration includes some new Louisiana yam recipes.

BROILED YAMS AND HAM WITH GRAPEFRUIT SAUCE

2 medium grapefruit
2 cups cooked ham strips
4 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and sliced lengthwise
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon allspice (or to taste)
1/4 teaspoon ginger (or to taste)

Cut top third from each grapefruit; flute 1 shell and reserve.

Carefully remove sections and reserve 1/2 cup; combine remaining sections, ham strips and yams in a shallow baking dish.

Mix together 1/4 cup of honey, lemon juice and 1/2 teaspoon each of the allspice and ginger. Pour over yam mixture; toss gently.

Broil 5 to 6 inches from source of heat 8 to 10 minutes or until thoroughly heated.

Meanwhile, combine reserved 1/2 cup grapefruit sections, remaining 1/4 cup honey, and 1/4 teaspoon each allspice and ginger; stir carefully over low heat 5 minutes.

Pour sauce into fluted grapefruit shell and serve with broiled ham, yam, and grapefruit to four happy diners. Another good idea: DIXIE YAM-PRUNE BAKE

1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1/4 cup water
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup pitted prunes
6 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and halved

Combine first 5 ingredients in saucepan; heat to boiling then simmer 5 minutes.

Pour over yams in baking dish; bake at 350 degrees F. 45 minutes, basting once.

Makes six servings of a delightful and different dish.

CANDIED LOUISIANA YAMS

4 medium yams, cooked, peeled
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
Cut yams in crosswise slices 1/2-inch thick; place in greased 1-quart casserole. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well and pour over yams. Bake at 375 degrees F. 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Egyptians Vote For Sadat Today

CAIRO (AP) — Millions of Egyptians trooped to the polls today to elect Anwar Sadat president for a six-year term. Sadat, 52-year-old acting president since the death of gamal Abdel Nasser on Sept. 28, was the only candidate in a "yes" or "no" referendum. He was nominated unanimously last week by the Arab Socialist Union, the nation's only political party, and the National Assembly.

The government radio and the controlled press campaigned up to the last minute for a massive turnout to demonstrate the nation's wholehearted support for Sadat as Nasser's successor.

Personals

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bartholomew and Kim, Stella Ave., were Mr. Bartholomew's daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. David Gamble, Debbie and Jim of Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee, Donnie, David, Shawn and Jada Jean of Columbus. The Gamble's will move to Alaska the latter part of October where Mr. Gamble will be stationed with the U.S. Air Force.

Dear Abby: Doctor Sends Bill For Social Calls!

DEAR ABBY: First I want to say that I know I did wrong and I am not looking for any excuses. I was not feeling well so I went to a doctor (internist), and after four visits he became quite amorous. Being lonely and depressed, I responded. He is in his fifties, short, stout and not at all physically attractive, but he has a warm and powerful personality. I am 35, blonde, thin and fairly attractive.

We arranged to meet at his office after hours. No winning or dining, everything took place right in his office. We became intimate.

Well, can you imagine how I felt when I received a bill from him for these social visits? Don't misunderstand, I expect to pay for his professional services, but he charged me for two office calls which were not professional.

Now I feel cheap and hurt. Should I pay the bill and say nothing? Or should I tell him how I feel? I certainly didn't expect to pay him for his love-making. Since he saw me after office hours, do you think he's entitled to a fee?

HURT
DEAR HURT: A fee! He is entitled to be booted out of the medical profession for unethical practices. And if you really want to shake the old boy up, tell him you're a "professional," and send him a bill.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 18 years and my husband has always called my mother and father by their first names. (My parents are quite young, and they never indicated they didn't like it. In fact, I always thought they liked it.) Recently, during a family argument, my father told my husband that from that time on he didn't wish to be addressed by his first name—that "Mister" would suit him fine. My husband was really hurt and shocked,

P&G Plans Phosphate Elimination

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Procter and Gamble, the nation's leading manufacturer of washing detergents, plans to eliminate all phosphates from its products.

P & G produces approximately 75 per cent of the nation's detergents used in laundering. Phosphates have been blamed for much of the excessive plant growth in the nation's lakes and streams.

Howard Morgens, president, told a shareholders' meeting Tuesday that the company has a step-by-step plan for eliminating phosphates.

"We have already reduced the phosphates going into our laundry detergents by 90 million pounds per year," he said.

There will be succeeding steps so that by March, 1972, P & G will have eliminated 500 million pounds of phosphates annually, a reduction of 38 per cent, he noted.

TV Networks Serious Fish Pinch?

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A veteran television executive says the networks' economic outlook for 1971 "is so serious that I believe there is no chance the network structure as we now know it will survive."

Michael H. Dann, former programming chief for CBS-TV and before that for NBC-TV, told broadcasters Tuesday:

"Unless the industry's leaders introduce other values than profits into their operating formulas they may—and undoubtedly will—end up with long-term leases on a network of coaxial cables that are of little or no use to anyone."

Dann, now vice president for foreign distribution of the Children's Television Workshop in New York, producer of the "Sesame Street" program, called for boldness, creativity and innovation in programming.

"Commercial television's product today is derivative, not distinctive," he said. "The result is by and large bland where it should be bold, poor where it should have power..."

"If commercial network television is to survive in some new constructive form, the men who run the networks must not cut back at this point, but do what their predecessors did in the early 50s: experiment, gamble and, most of all, not play it safe to insure some sort of short-term profits."

Dann, 49, a veteran of 22 years in commercial broadcasting, spoke to 300 broadcast executives, television producers and advertising men at a luncheon of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

The Children's Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pickaway County Public Library has a section devoted to books for children. Volumes recently added to the Children's Library are reviewed here.

To commemorate National Children's Book Week, Nov. 15 through 21, the library is planning a contest to name its children's department.

Many such rooms have special titles, like the "Lewis Carroll Room" in Cleveland, or the "Book Nook" or "Jack Horner's Corner". Boys and girls of Pickaway County schools, grades one through eight, are invited to submit their suggestions for a name for the children's department of the Pickaway County District Public Library.

Contest blanks are available at the main library and from the bookmobile staff. An entry in any form will be accepted so long as it includes the entrant's name, address, and school. Entries will be judged on the basis of originality and suitability by a panel of five county residents. They include: Craig Schein, a fifth grader at South Court School; Donna Moss, senior from Logan Elm High School who participated in the library's summer reading program as a story teller; Mrs. Tom Bunty, former librarian from the Carnegie Library system of Pittsburgh; Mrs. John Dunlap, who served on the Pickaway County Board of Library Trustees; and Mrs. Walter Hall, Children's Librarian.

In the case of a tie, a duplicate prize (a book) will be awarded to each winner. Contest closes on November 15, 1970, the first day of Children's Book Week. Winner will be announced on the following Saturday.

Truman Capote Said Ready To Surrender

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Don Keller said today author Truman Capote, who failed to appear to testify as a prosecution witness in the penalty trial of a convicted murderer, is expected to surrender Monday on a warrant charging contempt of court.

Keller said he had received word from Capote's attorney indicating the 46-year-old novelist — now in New York — would appear before Superior Court Judge Byron McMillan in adjacent Orange County.

Jackson PTB with a membership comprised of Jackson, Deercreek, Perry, Muhlenberg and a smidgen of Monroe Twps. met at the school Monday evening. The membership contest between the blue and green teams was a "hotly" contested one and the final results were amazing what with the winning team — the blue — winning by a count of one. Final tally was Dolly Thompson, blue team with 40; Sheri Smith with 50 for blue team; total of 90. Margene Looney a co-captain on the green team scored 58 members and Becky Roush, also a green co-captain brought in 31 with a total green team of 89. This is a sum of 179 members and the girls are to be highly commended for the tremendous effort expended.

The fun part of the evening was the drawing of prizes for members of the winning team. The prizes had been generously donated by area merchants and how very fortunate we are to have these folks to support us and our school activities. After a number of drawings then all the membership was included for several drawings.

Lucky winners were: Mary Welsh, Mrs. Centofanti, Pat Welsh, Verna Dillon, Ann Short, Verna Holbrook, Hugh Neff, Mrs. Casto, Don Martin, Shirley Clemmons, Linden Gibson, Virginia Russell, Mrs. Scarbrough, Marvin Rhoades, Sheri Smith, Darlene Darst, Mrs. Milburn Conley, Helen Emerine, Mrs. Bill Caudill, Jackie Neff, Sue Amann, Joe Cottrill, Ray Valone, Marabel Drummond, Rozella Hamric, Glenna Wiscup, Jeanine Hamman, Shrie Bowser, Jim Clark, Jim Cochenour, Marvin Hastings, Evelyn Hastings, Betty Bilek, Ruth Schleich, Marie Kingery, Glenda Cook.

The merchants who so generously donated were: Downtown Sohio, L. M. Butch Co., Weaver Furniture, Stonerock Grocery, Roush's Amway, Mason Furniture, Ford Furniture, Bingman Drugs, Circle D Recreation, Ward's Royal Blue, A and W Beauty Salon, A and W Drive-in, Stonerock T. V., Sue's Beauty Barn, Palm's Salvage, Jenkin's Sunoco, Easterday Welding, Leist and Keller Garage and Welding, Pat's Beauty Shop, Larry's Barber Shop, CHS TV Shop, June Boyer, Avon, Helen's Beauty Shop, The Children's Shop, Annalou Immeil Amway dealer.

During the business session the high point was the endorsement by the vote of those present, of the .5 mill levy for the Brooks-Yates School. We sincerely hope that those unable to attend will also give their wholehearted support and backing to this worthy endeavor.

It was announced that the next meeting on Nov. 3, will be a Thanksgiving program with the 4-5-6 grades participating.

The next card party will be Nov. 7 and the committee members to serve are: Mr. and Mrs. Larry Roush, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar List, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Casto, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. William Clemmons, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Clemmons, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dowdy. We emphasize again and again, you will serve on only ONE card party this year and not three or four as has been the practice in the past. We hope this change meets favorably with the parents and teachers of the school as the executive committee wants very much this year to "lighten the load" and distribute the work load a bit more evenly.

Room mothers were announced and they will prepare their committees for the room parties for the year. The first one being Halloween. They are: First grade, Mrs. Dan Eitel, Mrs. Gladys Hill; Second grade, Mrs. Wayne Carter, Mrs. Fred Summers; Third grade, Mrs. Arthur Greene, Mrs. Paul McClish; Fourth grade, Mrs. James Hastings, Mrs. Don Martin; Fifth grade, Mrs. Oscar List, Mrs. Delores Dutcher; Sixth grade, Mrs. Herbert Holbrook, Mrs. Mearle Logan; Junior High Fall Dance, Mrs. Frank Henson, chairman, Mrs. Jim Hamman, co-chairman, Mrs. David Drummond, Mrs. Robert Garrison, Mrs. Jim Picklesimer, Mrs. John Graffis, Mrs. Warren Wright, Mrs. Fred Dowdy; Spring Dance, Mrs. Robert Hastings, chairman, Mrs. Gerald Welsh co-chairman; Mrs. Jack Betts, Mrs. Stanley Underwood, Mrs. Warren Elliott, Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. Maynard Marshall, Mrs. Norman Schooley.

The program for the evening was a talent show with monetary awards given the winners, who were: pre-school through third grade, first, Sonny and Joy Bidwell; second, Kim Lindsey; third, Wayne Withers; 4-5-6 grades winners were: first, Rosemary Carle; second, Pat Carle; third, Frank Withers; Junior High: tie for first, Nancy Schein and Gail Underwood; second Vicki Thompson.

Adults had only one entry and it was a real "bring down the house" act with Mary Ann (Mrs. Joe) Carle playing several accordion selections. The entire audience kept calling for "more", "more".

Daddy Bill yours truly and offspring Marc, Becki and Amy with guests John Graffis and Mike Martin journeyed to Old Man's Cave, Cedar Falls, and Ash Cave Sunday for a picnic and a look see. Let me tell you, as far as this old chick is concerned those places are for young kids and those lovers who are willing to climb the highest mountain, etc. Good grief, Charlie Brown, then "thar" hills are something else.

From there we motored down Mooresville way and had a "sittin'" and "cha'lin'" spell with my mama Mrs. Earl Hardman and brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Barnes, David Jr., Michele and Theresa. That kind of thing is more my bag.

Proving that you never really get away from home, Sunday who should we "run" into at Old Man's Cave but Maynard and Velma Marshall and their Karen, Lynn, and Doug and with them were Velma's sister Louise and her ever-lovin' spouse, Robert Burk and their two girls, Sandy and Susie who are here from their near Chicago, Ill. home. The Caves area is one of their favorite spots and they always like to tour it when they come. They spent time with Mother Thomas of Circleville while here, too.

Making the scene at East Lansing, Mich. this weekend were Johnny and Doris Reynolds, her mother Gertrude Schleich (one of the nicest human beings it has been our privilege to know) and the Reynolds daughter Marsha and her handsome hubby, Roger Clark (they are Columbusites). They went to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Smalley and John, Joe and Susie and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Castle and high on the agenda was attending the Michigan State and OSU game. Saturday afternoon, The Royals duo returned home Sunday evening and the other three are expected in Wednesday.

Some folks play musical chair but out in the Wright addition it almost could be called musical house what with Mike and Carol Tarbill and little ones moving over to Geneva Eisnagle's property which they purchased. Geneva and daughter Linda are moving up the street to the recently bought Bud and Connie Grady home; and I understand the Grady's will possibly purchase Harvey and Margene Looney's house into their property on the corner of Water and Route 22. By Mrs. Ray Poling

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Laurel Hill United Methodist Church met Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Jack Nostrom with Mrs. Denver Drum as assisting hostess.

The meeting was opened by all singing "What a Friend We Have in Jesus." Opening Prayer by Mrs. Harry Martin. Devotions were given by Mrs. Ramon Bigham. She read the 23rd Psalm, also gave the Spiritual Life lesson in showing pictures from the 23rd Psalm and reading two poems.

The lesson topic, "The Middle Years," was given by Mrs. Dick Karr.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. O. V. McFadden, Mrs. C. B. Chilcote, Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Phyllis Strous, Mrs. Francis Disbennett, Mrs. Robert Sepsion, Mrs. Francis Huber, Miss Jean Ann Bigham, Mrs. Dick Karr and Mrs. Ramon Bigham.

Mrs. Carl Engle of Enterprise was a Friday afternoon visitor of Mrs. Ray Poling.

Mrs. Nell Swackhammer.

Loans Legal, Crofters Officials Say

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The three owners of Crofters, Inc., said Wednesday state Auditor Roger Cloud's report that loans they arranged from the state treasury were illegal "is absolutely false."

"Every loan with which we were connected was lawful in all respects," Gerald A. Donahue, Sidney D. Griffith and Harry A. Groban said in a joint statement.

"The reference to a 270-day limitation is an absolute fiction," they said, "as such a restriction is not contained in Ohio law."

Many of the loans the firm helped corporations arrange were for two-year periods. Cloud said short-term notes should not be for a period longer than 270 days.

The Crofters principals said State Treasurer John D. Herbert had made several two-year investments "before and after the formation of our company."

"When the smoke of the political cannons has died down and the light of day finally shows upon the record, it will reveal the state has not lost money, but rather has been the beneficiary of many dollars in interest payments, all of which alleviate the tax burden upon the people," the three said.

Court Rejects Appeal In Auto Accident Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court ruled Wednesday a Columbus teen-ager paralyzed in a 1965 auto accident cannot collect damages because he was a passenger in his own car.

By refusing to hear an appeal by William Ralph Starr, the high court upheld two lower court decisions against the suit.

Starr was driving his car between Fremont and Tiffin in July 1965 when he became sleepy and stopped and let William Richard Boehmer drive. Police said Boehmer ran the car into a tree while trying to dodge a small animal on the road.

Mrs. Hugh Poling and Miss Celeste Hoy were over Wednesday evening to see Mr. Carl Swackhammer at Defenbaugh Funeral Home, Circleville.

Master David Shane Goodman of Adelphi was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Poling.

Miss Dora Armstrong arrived home Saturday from a rest home in Grove City.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Boecher Jr. and daughter, Dana of Chillicothe were Wednesday dinner guests of Mrs. Hazel McNeal.

Mrs. Doris Canter of Columbus spent the week with Mrs. Hazel McNeal.

Mrs. Hazel McNeal spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. David Carnes and sons of Chillicothe and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kerns of Marietta Pike.

Mrs. Hazel McNeal entertained some of the ladies of Pochontas Lodge Wednesday evening. Games were played and refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, Mrs. Lilly Fisher, Mrs. William Riser, Mrs. Loi Tatman, Mrs. Clifford Downing, Mrs. Doris Canter, Mrs. Bundy Woodghard and guests, Mrs. Gladys Greeno, Mrs. Paul Good and Mrs. Wayne Vorhease and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Miller and sons of Kokomo, Ind., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton and family.

Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Poling were Mr. and Mrs. Malron Shupe of Mansfield, Miss Blanch Shupe, Mrs. Nellie Riedy, Mrs. John Young, all of Columbus, Miss Margie Shupe of Dayton and Mr. and Mrs. John Downs of Circleville.

State Highway Department Hit By Union Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Service Employees Association said it would seek legal action today to force two Highway Department officials to live up to its contract and enjoin a rival union from interfering in OSEA affairs.

Association attorneys said petitions would be filed in Wood and Tuscarawas County common pleas courts against deputy directors Raymond J. Rice of Bowling Green and Levi Kimball of Gover and officials of the Joint Organizing Council of the Operating Engineers Laborers Union.

The OSEA maintains Rice and Kimball violated a contract provision making the association the exclusive bargaining agent for all classified employees and laborers by recognizing the Joint Council as a negotiator for certain employees.

Labor Turnover Adds To Costs

LONDON (AP) — Labor turnover, sickness and absenteeism costs Britain's electronics industry at least 75 million pounds a year according to a government report. The report claims that 3.7 million working days were lost in 1969 through absenteeism, compared to 335,000 in industrial disputes.

High School Marijuana Use Cited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A cross section sampling indicates only 13 per cent of Ohio high school students ever tried smoking marijuana, the Buckeye Association of School Administrators was told today.

A report on student attitudes toward social issues was presented at the association's annual fall conference here.

The study, being published in book form, was conducted by R. H. Gottleier and Associates, Inc., of Columbus, in cooperation with Market Opinion Research of Detroit.

Polled were 1,100 students in 74 public and parochial high schools with a variety of economic and racial composition. Fifty-nine per cent of the students said marijuana is available at their schools and 25 per cent favored legalization of the drug.

Other findings cited in the report: —High school students appear to be people-oriented in their attitudes and are greatly concerned by the lack of communications among all elements of society.

—Their interest in achieving happiness by understanding and communicating with people overrides concern for material success or professional achievement.

—Most students think the war in Southeast Asia is the most important problem facing American society, followed by environmental pollution, racial and minority problems and campus unrest.

—Some 58 per cent placed the blame for the tragic shootings at Kent State University last spring on the students themselves rather than National Guardsmen.

—Nearly 60 per cent said they feel the federal government does a good job of representing the views and desires of the people, and 77 per cent believe the state government does a good job.

—Ninety per cent said they feel they should be involved in decisions affecting them such as curriculum planning, dress codes and rules of conduct.

—Most said student power and student activism can help bring better education to high schools.

—Two-thirds of the students said they believe the proper role for woman in society is "equal, but the primary position should be that of a homemaker."

—Television is considered the most accurate of the mass media, but students are more satisfied with radio.

Results of the study are being distributed to elementary, secondary and college administrators.

The study, conducted under a grant awarded Kent State University, was designed "to provide guidance to high school and university administrators in the ever-changing educational environment," said BASA President Harold Wilson, superintendent of the Cuyahoga Falls school district.

"It is hoped that by better understanding the viewpoints of students, we as administrators, teachers and parents will be better able to provide a more relevant educational system," Wilson said.

"GRASS" CLIPPINGS—A record amount of marijuana is checked by police at the Everett, Pa., state police barracks after the law men picked up two California men and the "grass" at a service plaza on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. There is $123,000 worth of "pot" in the bags.

NEW YORK (AP) — With Wednesday night's episode, the remodeling of NBC's "The Virginian" into "The Men from Shiloh" was completed.

The second of the series' new stars was introduced—Lee Majors, once one of Barbara Stanwyck's sons in "The Big Valley." He played a paroled convict—justifiable homicide—who was rescued from a lynching party. At episode's end he had been hired as a hand by Stewart Granger, this season's owner of Shiloh.

Between the opening lynching party and the finish, there was a long and talky story lacking both action and sense. Granger was escorting the 17-year-old daughter of a tycoon out West in a private car on the Cheyenne train. His quick action saved the young man and got him aboard the train. The girl promptly flipped over him. The plot thickened only slightly when four men aboard the train planned to kidnap the girl for ransom.

Naturally, our hero foiled the plot and was revealed as a nice fellow before the wind-up shoot-out, but not too soon to keep the audience from dozing off.

The series, even in the "Virginian" days, has frequently suffered from padding—a passable 60-minute story dragged out to 90. The padding Wednesday was achieved by some of the most uninspired boy-girl dialogue this season.

that "Hawaii Five-O" is therefore the best show of the three. That is not necessarily so, but it is a handsome, professionally produced hour that takes advantage of the scenery of the 50th state. But like all series, it has good nights with stories that work and some bad nights, too.

This week things worked pretty well. It was a standard action story based on the theft of a priceless violin from a visiting Russian musician. The thieves—who overacted wildly—tried to ransom it from the musician and his secretary-guard. But McGarrett, crime fighter extraordinary, came to the rescue at the last moment.

Jack Lord, as McGarrett, dominates the series. However, he plays the part with such savage, humorless intensity, that it becomes monotonous after brief exposure.

NBC's "The Name of the Game," which dropped co-star Tony Franciosa earlier this season after repeated disagreements, will continue the season without a regular replacement. Robert Culp will star in two Franciosa vehicles, and the rest will be played by guest stars.

Cement Masons OK Big Wage Increase

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cement masons and the builders association have signed a four-year contract to end the city's 28-week construction strike.

Terms were not announced and the contract reached Tuesday is not subject to ratification by union members. They had overwhelmingly rejected two earlier proposals including increases totaling $4.50 that would have boosted pay scales to $9.52 an hour in 1973.

"THE KINGS BUSINESS HOUR" BROADCAST IS ON THE AIR EACH EVENING MONDAY - SUNDAY 6:00 - 6:30 P.M. ON WNRE-FM CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO

There will be a Halloween party Sunday night, Oct. 25 from 6 to 8:30 at the Presbyterian Church. All are invited, come masked and have fun.

A film, "The Unreachables" was presented by Sgt. Walter Howell of the State Highway Patrol Tuesday night in the Municipal Building and was viewed by members of the Civic Club and their guests before they went to the home of Mrs. Howard Fish for the business part of the meeting. The film deals with wrecks on the highway and Sgt. Howell gave a brief resume of the hazards of driving and said that he felt that if the Golden Rule was applied here, the highways would be much safer. He was presented a gift from the club at the end of his talk.

Mrs. Paul Priest resigned as president and the vice president, Mrs. William Adams will assume her duties. The club project, a booth at the Circleville Pumpkin Show, was discussed and Oct. 17 chosen as date for final preparations.

Mrs. Bernice Immell spent the weekend at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Immell Jr. and children, Kim, Karen and Ricky in Washington C. H.

Mr. Harvey Large is a medical patient in Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

SERTOMA HELPS — Patrolman Jack Mills looks on while Sertoma Dick Lamb (right) presents Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple a check for $100 to help defray expenses of a police instructors course in Lima late November. Officer Mills will be taking the course. Following his schooling, he will be qualified to teach the basic police courses. The school is sponsored by the state department of education.

Kent President Says Destructive Group On Campus

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White says that "a small group dedicated to the destruction of the university is at work" on the campus and warns that "the next few days could be volatile."

Dr. White issued his statement Wednesday after a student demonstration was cancelled by student sponsors. Those who showed up for the demonstration were told that "professional provocateurs" reportedly were on campus to create violence. He called for the university community to go about its work and refuse to be dragged into any violence. Dr. White's remarks were transmitted over the university's new anti-rumor telephone system.

White said he had been advised during the summer that some persons were bent on the destruction of the university, adding: "We were told that these persons would surface after the year had started, probably using the assistance of outsiders or non-students."

Bushy bearded Jerry Persky, vice president of the Youth International Party (Yippies) at Kent, said he had heard reports that one troublemaker had come from New York and that attempts would be made to "institute violence" during the demonstration. He said provocateurs wanted to "shut down the university."

Persky, Yippie President Richard T. Hess and Ken Hammond of the Kent Liberation Front, addressed students who showed up for the noon rally on the university commons and announced that the rally had been called off.

They said another reason they cancelled the demonstration because it was reported that a counter-demonstration was planned which might have sparked violence.

Hess showed onlookers a leaflet he said was printed and distributed by unknown persons "bent on discrediting the Yippies and KLF." The spurious leaflet listed five demands, including a $10 tuition increase to finance "organizations fighting to destroy the immoral, fascist establishment."

Merle Haggard Top Winner In Country Music Awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Merle Haggard has won the most coveted award given by the Country Music Association — Entertainer of the Year.

"This concludes the most wonderful year of my life," Haggard said in accepting the award on the stage of the Grand Ole Opry House Wednesday night.

The California balladeer received three other awards during the hour-long ceremonies televised on NBC's Kraft Music Hall. He also was named Male Vocalist of the Year and won awards for his song, "Okie from Muskogee," in two categories, album and single.

The Song of the Year award went to "Sunday Morning Coming Down," by Kris Kristofferson.

Haggard defeated such contenders as Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell, Roy Clark and Charley Pride in winning the top entertainer award. Cash won the title last year and Campbell the year before.

The awards highlighted the 45th anniversary celebration of the Grand Ole Opry, which continues through Saturday night's performance of the Opry.

Blonde songstress Tammy Wynette captured her third straight award as Female Vocalist of the Year. She finished ahead of Lynn Anderson, Loretta Lynn, Dolly Parton and Connie Smith.

Guitarist Jerry Reed, a regular on Glen Campbell's network television show, was named instrumentalist of the year over Chet Atkins, last year's winner; Roy Clark; Floyd Cramer and Merle Travis.

Ohio Newspaper Women Eye Awards
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — More than $1,800 in prize money will be distributed Saturday to top writers in the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association.

The award ceremony will be a highlight of the group's weekend meeting here, which also will include panel discussions, business sessions and a night at the opera.

Auto Insurance Comes Under Fire From Metzenbaum

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Federal regulation of auto insurance rates was proposed today by Democratic Senate candidate Howard Metzenbaum, who said the current state system fails to provide adequate protection for policyholder.

Metzenbaum, his Republican opponent and the two major candidates for governor all were campaigning in northeastern Ohio.

Robert Taft Jr., the GOP U.S. Senate nominee, criticized recommendation of the Commission on Obscenity and Pornography as being contrary to "the desires and feelings of the American people."

The gubernatorial candidate, Republican Roger Cloud and John J. Gilligan, both cited the need for action to curb environmental pollution.

Metzenbaum told newsmen in Cleveland the present auto insurance system is "basically unfair, inequitable and exceedingly wasteful."

"Insurance policies are indiscriminately canceled, many in need of insurance cannot procure it without paying an unbelievable surcharge, rates increase without any regulation and severely injured persons often do not receive just compensation," he said.

Metzenbaum contended auto insurance is subject to federal regulation because the Supreme Court in 1944 declared it was interstate commerce.

He called for federal laws to: —Guarantee that any licensed driver could buy insurance and be faced with cancellation only if he loses his license or fails to pay premiums.

—Remove bans imposed by 36 states on the sale of cost-cutting group auto insurance.

—Require companies to justify rate increases in public hearings before the Transportation Department.

Taft said in Medina the pornography report was "a vestige of Democratic Johnsonian permissiveness" and asked President

Nixon to disavow it.

The commission, named by former President Lyndon Johnson, recommended repeal of laws prohibiting distribution of sexual material to consenting adults.

"This recommendation," Taft said, "is another example of rampant ultra-liberal permissiveness which has characterized American life during recent years."

The Cincinnati Congressman said he will push for passage of two anti-pornography bills he has introduced.

They would prohibit interstate distribution of advertisements appealing to prurient interests in sex and pornographic materials allegedly harmful to minors.

Cloud, issuing a position paper on control of land pollution, criticized Gilligan for failing to present "any specific plans to the people of Ohio."

"I believe the people have a right to know what a candidate for governor will do after the election," said Cloud, who has issued 10 action programs on various issues.

Cloud said land pollution is so serious we are "threatened with burial in our own discarded waste products."

Deploing the fact that thousands of tons of solid wastes are dumped onto the land each day, Cloud said "They have ruined the habitats of wildlife and spread scenic blight."

Among other things, his program calls for improved collection and disposal methods, research on waste recycling, stiffer anti-litter laws, regulations and incentives for industry to develop containers that disintegrate rapidly upon disposal, re-examination of land use and natural resources land acquisition to maintain recreation areas.

Gilligan said in Huron Wednesday that "Unless we begin to act immediately even the best-preserved of our natural waters and lands are in danger" from pollution.

"We need prompt, strict enforcement of our anti-pollution laws," he said, charging the state administration has failed in both categories.

Instead of enforcing the law, the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board has "granted 1,700 licenses to pollute—permission to industries and municipalities to go on polluting the water of our state," Gilligan charged.

In Canton Wednesday night, Gilligan said public confidence in state government has been lost under the Republican administration.

He called on Ohioans to "stand with me, strive with me, work with me to restore honest government."

The Republican and Democratic candidates for state treasurer clashed over the state loan scandal during a debate before the Cleveland City Club Wednesday.

State Sen. Robin Turner, the Republican nominee found himself on the defensive most of the time as Democrat Gertrude Donahey criticized him for not speaking out against the state loans and for accepting campaign contributions from officers of a firm that arranged the loans.

"Never once has my opponent raised his voice in criticism of what went on in that (treasurer's) office," Mrs. Donahey said.

"I am deeply concerned about the propriety of my opponent receiving $7,500 in $100 bills in a remote wayside inn in Delaware County," she told an audience made up largely of women.

Turner replied that before the primary election "I said that if I were elected treasurer I would not issue commercial paper."

He indicated he believed there were some irregularities in the loans, but added, "make sure as you condemn that you get the right people."

Regarding the campaign gift, Turner said, "The money was accepted as a good faith contribution and was spent by my campaign committee."

3 Students Get Trustee Seats At Otterbein

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Three Otterbein College seniors were elected to the school's board of trustees Wednesday in a campus-wide vote.

Selected to serve terms of 3-2-1 years, respectively, were Bryan E. Napper of New Bloomington, William E. Vaughn of Columbus and James R. Sylvester of Worthington.

The Otterbein faculty votes next Tuesday to choose three instructors for seats on the board.

The addition of students and faculty members will swell board membership to 30.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE SMOKELESS?—The Blue Flame makes a pass over the Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah, where it has set its sights on bettering the world land speed record of 600.601 m.p.h. It burns smokeless fuel—that cloud is vapor and salt.

Rogers, Egyptian Minister Meet On Truce Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, opening 10 busy days of talks with world leaders at the United Nations, set a meeting today with Egypt's Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad.

With Riad, and with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Friday, Rogers will sound out prospects for putting the U.S. Mideast peace plan back on the track.

Rogers has served notice he wants enough "rectification" of alleged Mideast truce violations by the Soviets and Egyptians to get the proposed Arab-Israeli negotiations going. He has not specified publicly just what would have to be done.

Washington contends—and Moscow and Cairo deny—the Soviets and Egyptians have violated the Aug. 8 standstill cease fire by a missile buildup in the Suez truce zone. Israel is boycotting the peace talks because of the alleged violations.

With Gromyko—whom he sees again on Monday—Rogers expects to talk about President Nixon's new Vietnam peace plan, Berlin, strategic arms curb negotiations and other East-West issues.

The Rogers-Gromyko sessions will provide a high-level camouflaging for U.S. strategists on whether the Kremlin has shifted toward a hard line in dealing with the West. Administration officials pushing Nixon's "era of negotiations" policy have been particularly concerned about what they regard as blatant violations of the Mideast cease fire.

Rogers' appointment with Riad will give U.S. policymakers a glimpse also of Cairo's foreign policy under the new leadership succeeding the late President Gamal Abdul Nasser.

The secretary of state will be talking with a large number of other foreign dignitaries attending the opening of the fall session of the U.N. General Assembly.

The fall gathering by foreign ministers has become an annual affair. Rogers last saw Gromyko at the 1969 session.

This year the U.N. session is augmented by visits from an array of government chiefs who are coming for the U.N.'s 25th anniversary observance.

Matthew S. McLaughlin, president of Ford Marketing Corp., said Ford was "pleased to cooperate in the suggestion" made by the Transportation Department.

"We repeat what we have stated before: That there is no defect in the control arm," he said. "But we believe that when any vehicle is subject to abuse or accident damage, such as that specified by the DOT, it should be inspected before being driven."

The DOT mention of "non-pursuit vehicles" was a reference to the fact that the initial reports of failure of a part called the lower control arm came from police departments. Cracking of the arm left the driver without control of the car.

A government investigation concluded the failures result from smashing over curbs at high speeds. Normal use would not affect the arms, the government said, so Ford recalled only police cars—85,000 of them—in August.

Ralph Nader and the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety disagreed and urged DOT last month to reopen the investigation.

Nader and the institute, which is funded by the insurance industry, cited instances reported to Ford where failures had occurred on passenger cars driven as little as 13 miles.

Dodge did the investigation for Nader.

Dodge also challenged the Transportation Department and Ford assertion that the failure rate on passenger cars is one in 100,000. He noted that figure used only the failures the government has declared "verified."

The insurance institute, in criticizing the government figures last month, noted that Ford reported 154 instances when dealers or owners had reported control arm failures.

In only the 37 "verified" cases did government investigators crack down the owners of the cars—which date back to 1965—and satisfy themselves that the control arms failed.

Dodge said he was particularly troubled the government did not list 1967 Thunderbirds in the alert bulletin while including 1968 and 1969 T-Birds. He also contended the control arms are used on some 1970 Ford Models, which were not mentioned.

Dodge also contended Ford redesigned the control arms to make them heavier in 1969 but continued to use stock already on hand in initial production of 1970 models. How many of the smaller arms are on the 1970 cars Ford refuses to say. Dodge said Ford has no comment on the charge immediately.

The models which were included in the safety alert were the following 1965-1969 Fords: Custom, Custom 500, Galaxy 500, Galaxy 500 SL, Galaxy 500 LTD, Country Sedan, Country Squire, Ranch Wagon, XL, LTD and Custom Ranch Wagon.

Municipal Court Well Known To Traffic Violators

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the fourth of a series of articles focusing on the work of each department and board which are necessary in the government of Circleville. The business and operations of the Municipal Court, probably one of the busiest offices of the city, are studied here.

Circleville Municipal Court is perhaps the best known agency of the city, especially to those citizens who drive. Here is where all the traffic tickets are paid off and traffic hearings held.

But Clerk Naomi "Nikki" Houghton and Deputies Pam Lint and Barbara Alexander have more to do than just recording traffic offenses which occur within the county — and there is more to the job than just writing the offender's name in the large docket — a docket which becomes legal record for the next 20 years.

Almost 1,000 different legal forms are tucked away in various parts of the small office. All are necessary — sometimes daily, sometimes not so often — to handle normal affairs of the court.

This is some indication of the enormous amount of paperwork and journalizing done by these women.

DAILY, each morning, affidavits filed at the police station since court closing the night before are collected with whatever bond money is posted. These affidavits go on file in the criminal docket or civil suit docket and receipts are made for the money. These receipts are returned to the police for filing with their records.

Affidavits from the Sheriff's department and Highway Patrol are brought in later in the morning. During the day, the women are constantly filing affidavits whenever attorneys, officers or regular citizens file charges for various offenses.

For each case which comes in, hearings must be set. If a case is continued, letters must be sent to all persons involved and the arresting officer notified. If a defendant should fail to appear, a warrant is issued at the judge's order for his arrest.

Included in the paperwork is a case-by-case record of every arrest handled by the Ohio Highway Patrol, the person's name, fine and costs and percentage owed to the state. All Patrol fines are divided with 45 per cent going to Circleville, 45 per cent to the state and 10 per cent to the county. Special records are also kept of all AAA auto club bonds.

Each case involving a fine or bond forfeiture is recorded in

Tell Details Of Sharon Tate Slaying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sitting on the edge of her jailhouse bed, Susan Atkins once vividly described how she stabbed beautiful Sharon Tate and felt "a form of sexual release," a former cellmate says.

The witness at the Tate murder trial Tuesday—statuesque brunette Ronnie Howard, 31—quoted Miss Atkins as saying she stabbed the pregnant actress in the chest, then fought back an urge to cut the baby out of her body.

"She said Sharon screamed constantly," said Miss Howard, "and whenever she screamed she stabbed her. She stabbed her until she stopped screaming."

Miss Atkins was quoted as saying: "It's better than having a climax. It's a form of sexual release, stabbing a person, because the whole world is one intercourse. Whether it is smoking or eating it is all in and out."

Miss Howard was the second to testify that Miss Atkins, 21, admitted stabbing Miss Tate. The first, Virginia Graham Castro, who was in jail at the time for petty theft, finished two days of testimony Tuesday. Their stories were similar.

Miss Atkins is on trial with Charles M. Manson, 35, and two other women members of his hippie-type family, all are charged with murder-conspiracy in the August 1969 slayings of Miss Tate and six others.

CRIMINAL RECORD — Pam Lint, deputy clerk, makes a record of arrest for several persons picked up on misdemeanors and felonious charges by city police. She also handles criminal cases coming from the sheriff's department, Highway Patrol, game warden, dog catcher, attorneys and private citizens. As of Wednesday, there have been 4,724 cases filed during 1970, simply in the criminal division.

dividualy in a 17-column cash book kept by the clerk. In the local court, this book has become almost a legend for it has always balanced out in the 15 years Nikki has been handling it. This is unique feat. Practically every court in Ohio suffers a shortage one month and an excess another. They balance their books by hoping everything will come out all right at the end of the year.

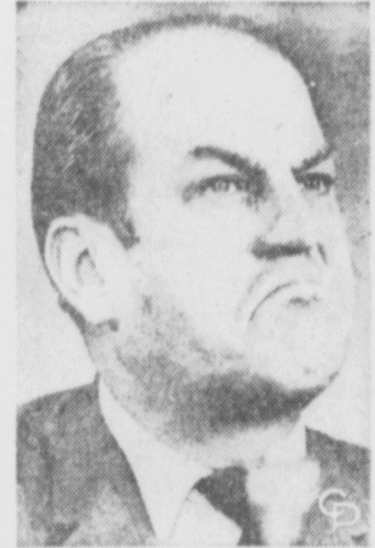

The last of each month each book, file docket and register used by the court clerks must agree. Then checks are issued to the city, state treasurer, county and other agencies due payment. The clerk may close out the books at noon, emptying her cash book of funds, and by closing time at 4 p.m., have taken in enough money for normal business.

A MONTHLY list of all traffic violations in the county is sent to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. This information is fed to computers which keep a record of every Ohioan's driving record for immediate check at a later date by law enforcement officers.

Our city court is one of the two main revenue-collecting agencies of our local government. In 1969 it contributed over $92,000 to the city.

Besides criminal cases the Municipal Court has jurisdiction over civil, criminal suits and trusteeships.

Civil cases involve suits against debtors and forcible entry. The court has jurisdiction in the entire county for suits up to $5,000. It shares this with the county's Common Pleas Court, whose jurisdiction is un-

GROUND PLANES — John Shaffer, Federal Aviation administrator, announces in Washington that all 16 planes owned by the company that provided the ill-fated charter plane for the Wichita State football team have been grounded. Thirty persons were killed when the plane crashed in the Rocky Mountains.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE — Sometimes the going gets tough for Deputy Clerk Barbara Alexander and Clerk Nikki Houghton, but they go on. There simply are not enough hours in the day to handle all the business that comes from law enforcement agencies, attorneys and questioning citizens. Over 1,000 different types of legal forms are needed by these women in their work handling the clerical business of the city court.

limited. A person may file suit under the $5,000 limit in either court.

It requires a deposit of $15 to file a civil action, payable at the time of filing. The case is docketed upon receipt and a hearing date set. Summonses are sent for both parties to be in attendance.

An attorney must be present at most civil actions. The only exception is forcible entry cases when the plaintiff, or person bringing the charges, may represent himself.

In the history of the court, most cases in this category are dismissed or awarded judgment by default.

In either situation, wages of the defendant can be garnished or withheld, to make payment of the debt. In case of a self-employed person, the court will issue an execution at the request of the plaintiff's attorney to hold some of the defendant's property of value until payment is made. In one instance, this valuable property was a Blue Tick hound.

A trusteeship is a financial arrangement handled by the court for persons who are so deeply in debt they cannot pay all their bills.

The person asking to be granted a trusteeship must convince the judge of their willingness to make their debts good. With his approval they are sent to the clerk who sets up a pay schedule of all their creditors and rates them according to their necessity. The clerk then informs all the businesses owed of the arrangement and that a ply with the law of the court or miss a payment, the trusteeship is dropped. It is six months before another may be refilled. Ninety-five per cent of all cases now handled by the court are dismissed before the debts are cleared.

As Court Clerk, Nikki is on 24-hour call whenever questions may arrive about a bond, a search warrant or approval of a check.

All the clerks face an almost impossible task of completing any work without constant interruptions from officers, private citizens, defendants and their families, and attorneys seeking advice. Nikki is personally responsible for every entry placed in the docket. She must be sure that the charge filed against a defendant is correct.

A great amount of responsibility rests on these three women who ably handle the affairs of the city court.

Starting Date For Calley Trial Set

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—A military judge has scheduled Nov. 16 as the starting date for the court-martial of Lt. William Calley Jr., charged with murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968.

The date was set Tuesday by Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the military judge who will preside.

Kennedy said prospective court-martial board members would be called and other preliminary matters handled Nov. 9.

Calley, a 27-year-old native of Miami, Fla., was in command of an infantry platoon that swept My Lai on the day a mass murder of civilians allegedly took place.

He is among 10 soldiers charged in the incident.

One of them, S.Sgt. David Mitchell, is now standing trial in a court-martial at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Kennedy denied Tuesday a defense motion for a civilian trial but granted a motion for permission to obtain secret testimony given before a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee if it is available.

Russians Test Nuclear Device

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The Uppsala Seismological Institute registered a strong underground explosion at 2:04 a.m. EDT Wednesday at Novaya Zemlya, in the Soviet Union indicating the Russians had conducted another underground nuclear test.

The institute said the explosion measured 6.7 on the Richter earthquake scale.

Such an underground explosion at Novaya Zemlya has been recorded every fall since 1966. But seismologists said the explosion today was the strongest in the series.

Social Security Answers

Q. My father wants to retire at 62. Will he be able to get social security?

A. Yes, but his monthly checks would be 20 per cent less than the amount he'd collect if he retired at 65.

Q. I have contributed to social security for 10 years. How much will I get when I retire?

A. That depends on your earnings. The amount of your social security checks will be figured at the time you retire on the basis of your average earnings over a period of years. But your contributions over the past ten years ensure that you have enough work to qualify for retirement benefits and Medicare.

Q. When I started working, my social security contributions were very small. They have increased a number of times since then. Have benefits gone up, too?

A. Yes. The average monthly benefit for a retired worker has increased some five times since payments first began in 1940. The average retirement check in 1940 was $22.60. Today, the average is $116.

Not only has the benefit amount increased, but health insurance and benefits for survivors, dependents, and the disabled have been added over the years.

See U.N. Force In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — A negotiated settlement of the Middle East situation might require enforcement by a strong international peacekeeping force under United Nations direction, a top Army general has told the Association of the United States Army.

Lt. Gen. Richard G. Stilwell, deputy chief of Army operations, said more than a small observer force like that on Cyprus might be needed.

"Realistically, the longstanding emotionally deep hostility which lies at the root of the Arab-Israeli conflict may dictate some type of international presence in the Mideast to assure compliance with the provisions of any negotiated settlement," Stilwell said Tuesday.

Weaver Not Disconsolate Over Surprise Oriole Loss

BALTIMORE (AP) — Prior to the fourth game of the World Series, a little girl asked Manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles for his autograph. After Weaver signed, the girl told him: "You know, I've never seen you guys win."

The anecdote, told by Weaver just before the Orioles took the fifth Wednesday to seek a four-game sweep over Cincinnati, drew laughs from his audience in the dugout. Weaver chuckled, too.

Th autograph-seeker couldn't have been a frequent visitor to recent Baltimore games. During the past two years, the Orioles had won 227 regular season and postseason games.

But an amazing 17-game winning streak ran up by the Orioles, who had last lost on Sept. 19, came to an end when Lee May whacked a three-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Reds a dramatic 6-5 victory.

Weaver wasn't laughing after that, but he was hardly disconsolate.

"All they did today was stay alive," Weaver said. "When we take the field tomorrow, we start all over. I don't believe in momentum. I said the same thing when we were winning."

Before the Reds sidetracked Baltimore's dash to its second series sweep in five years, Weaver recalled going into the fifth game in 1969 while trailing the New York Mets 3-1.

"Even after we lost for the third time," he said, "I thought we'd come back and take it all."

Reds Startle Baltimore; Win Clash 6-5

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Has Sparky Anderson discovered Gil Hodges' magic elixir in time to make a miracle for the Cincinnati Reds?

The desperate Reds, one step from oblivion in the 1970 World Series, startled Baltimore 6-5 Wednesday on a three-run, eighth-inning homer by strongman Lee May—after a pregame chat between their manager and New York Mets skipper Hodges.

"I told him, 'I don't know what your magic was last year, but I sure can't seem to find it,'" Anderson recalled.

If Hodges, whose club lost the series opener to Baltimore last year and then won four in a row, passed on the Met formula, Anderson wasn't about to reveal it after May's wallop and the airtight relief pitching of Clay Carroll saved the Big Red Machine from the scrap heap.

Nor would the Reds' manager, now trailing 3-1 in the best-of-7 set for baseball's top prize, name a starting pitcher to oppose Baltimore southpaw Mike Cuellar today in game No. 5, jeopardized by a forecast of rain.

"It'll be Milt Wilcox, Wayne Granger or Jim Merritt," he said. "I honestly don't know which one."

The Reds' predicament—no team ever has come on to win a series after losing the first three games—was worsened when Jim McGlothlin, losing pitcher in game No. 2 last Sunday, came up with arm trouble.

Merritt, a 20-game winner, also has had arm problems while relief specialist Granger never has started a major league game and Wilcox, a rookie with only five regular season appearances under his belt, was raked by the Orioles in relief of McGlothlin.

But the Reds' spirits definitely were on the upswing as they prepared to face 24-game winner Cuellar, a knockout victim in his two post-season starts. They had overcome a four-hit spree by series standout Brooks Robinson Wednesday and had come up with their own clutch performer—first baseman May.

"We've got more momentum now, we've started swinging better and we're more relaxed," said the 205-pound slugger, who drilled the first pitch from reliever Eddie Watt into the left field bleachers at jam-packed Memorial Stadium to erase a 5-3 Baltimore lead. The homer was his second of the series and gave him eight RBI high for either club.

"I think we're going to win it," he said.

"What happened today brought the whole team back," said Carroll, who blanked the Orioles on one hit for a three-game relief string of 613 scoreless innings in the series. "We were a little bit down, but we're going to be way up tomorrow."

"I'll be ready. If I pitch again I might hurt my arm. But we're trying to win this thing. So I'll be out there."

"We'll use all 10 pitchers if we have to," added center fielder Bob Toan. "It's going to be tough, but we'll take our chances and let it all hang out."

Until the eighth inning Wednesday, the Reds were hanging by their thumbs, Brooks Robinson's second series homer and a three-run burst in the third inning sent the Orioles on top and they added an unearned run in the sixth.

Bob Rule Leads Sonics Over Pistons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Rule said he didn't want to play for Seattle. Then he took the court and showed the rest of the league why they should try to get him—and showed the Sonics why they'd better keep him.

The 6-foot-9 center for the SuperSonics, unable to accept the National Basketball Association team's contract offer, said Wednesday he wanted to be traded.

Several hours later he faced the Detroit Pistons and, despite sitting out a large chunk of the game with foul trouble, still managed to pour in 37 points, 21 of them in the first half.

But with all this the Sonics still lost their opener as Detroit, with a balanced attack led by Dave Bing's 25 points and 22 apiece by Jimmy Walker and rookie Bob Lanier, withstood a fourth-quarter surge and beat Seattle 123-117.

In other NBA action the defending champion New York Knicks crushed Cincinnati 128-104, Buffalo bombed Cleveland 107-92, Baltimore blitzed San Diego 123-105 and Philadelphia edged Chicago 110-107.

In the only American Basketball Association game the Utah Stars opened league play by walloping Denver 134-99.

Cazzie Russell led the New York attack with 29 points and Willis Reed worked both ends of the court brilliantly with 23 points and 16 rebounds to wreck the Royals' debut.

St. Louis, Oakland Lead On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis and Oakland jumped to the front in offense and Minnesota and Kansas City on defense in the National Football League team statistics released today.

The Cardinals of the National Conference and the defending Super Bowl champion Chiefs of the American Conference made the biggest advances, each moving up from fifth place last week. Minnesota of the National and Oakland of the American each moved up one place.

The Cardinals were averaging 341 total yards on offense, 153 on the ground and 188 passing. San Francisco, despite its 20-6 upset over Los Angeles, fell to second at 332.

Tigers Seek 6th Win At Greenfield Friday

Coach Denny Williams will take his fifth ranked Circleville Tigers to Greenfield Friday night for an encounter with the winless McClain team.

"Although Greenfield hasn't come up with a win," Coach Denny Williams commented, "they have some good boys and one of these nights is going to surprise someone."

"We have been working hard all week to avoid any complacency on the part of our squad and don't want our guys going into any game with the feeling it might be a breather," Williams continued. "That is what can cause you to lose ballgames."

The Red and Black will be seeking its third win in the South Central Ohio League and its sixth win without a setback this year.

AFTER the Greenfield fray Circleville must still face the Panthers of Miami Trace on Oct. 23 and The Blue Lions of Washington C. H. on Oct. 30.

Gary Owens is still out and will not see action against the McClain boys but the rest of the squad is in good shape outside of some bumps and bruises.

Circleville found a solid running game against Hillsboro with the front wall tearing open holes in the opposition's line and the backs racing for a total of 304 yards on the ground.

Coupled with an already established passing game the running attack could make the Red and Black a hard to control ball club.

Offensively the Red and Black will go with Mike Webb and Don Valentine at the ends with Mark Davey and Bill Francis opposing the ball carriers from the tackle posts.

Davey will move into the middle guard spot and anchor the line.

Mike Hamrick and Jim Mogan will continue their fine work from the linebackers positions with Truex and either Long or Smith at the cornerbacks slots.

Doyle Kiser and Bowers will continue to harass the opposition from the halfback posts.

The Rotary Club of Greenfield has announced they will be holding a fish fry prior to the game in the high school cafeteria. They will be serving from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. and it will be open to the public.

Winningest Prep Gridders Showing Good Consistency

standout, consistent performances are showing up in results among top high school teams in the state.

Eighth-ranked Sidney High School of the Miami Valley League has scored a total of 227 points in five games while holding opponents to 24. It went over 50 points in three games and last week scored 48 points while holding Bellefontaine to six.

Big guns in the Sidney attack are quarterback Bruce Williams and Mike Flanagan, a halfback and the team's top scorer.

Sidney opened the season 54-12 over St. Marys, beat Wapakoneta 50-0, stopped Toledo Whitmer 21-6 and downed Greenville 54-0.

Cory Rawson High School of Rawson has a winning skien of 23 games and has now won 51 of its last 52 contests, including 33 standouts. The Fighting Hornets, 5-0 for the season, meets Leipsic, which has a 4-1 record, Friday night.

Quarterback Dan Shafer, a Hornet among Hornets, has completed 39 of 72 passes, including 10 for touchdowns. He passed for 183 yards in the 27-0 win over Hardin Northern last week, bringing his season yardage to 931.

Lake High School in Stark County has scored 242 points in a 5-0 season while holding opponents to 12 points. Massillon High, top ranked in Class AAA this week, has scored 202 points while holding opponents to 22. Mike Mauger, the Massillon powerhouse, has scored 13 touchdowns and eight extra points for a total of 86 points.

Add 10th Game To OSU Schedule

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University's Faculty Council has authorized Athletic Director Edward Weaver to add a 10th game to the Buckeye football schedule next season.

All other Big Ten Conference teams already play a 10-game schedule, approved by the NCAA in 1965.

The faculty council Tuesday gave Weaver a free hand in arranging either a home game or an away game before the regular season schedule begins next fall.

Weaver was out of town Tuesday and unavailable for comment on the action.

Chicago Bears opened the National Football League season with Gale Sayers and a quarterback problem.

Now they have a quarterback and the problem of replacing Gale Sayers, who appears headed for knee surgery next week for the second time in two years.

Dr. Theodore Fox, Bear physician, reported yesterday: "If subsequent tests confirm what I believe, surgery will be performed next week on Gale Sayers' left knee."

"Time is in no way a factor in determining a successful end result."

the Reds, May singled home another in the second and Pete Rose homered in the fifth. But Orioles' starter Jim Palmer appeared to be in command, despite control difficulties, going into the eighth.

Then Tony Perez, who has stroked just one hit in 14 series at bats, walked on a 3-2 pitch and Johnny Bench, 2-for-14 as he came to the plate, lined a long single to left.

Manager Earl Weaver of the Orioles lifted Palmer at that point and Watt, a stocky late-inning stopper, got the call for the first time in the series.

His first pitch was a beat-high fastball—which May deposited in the seats.

"Watt has done the job for me all year in short relief," Weaver said. "May just went up there and ripped the ball. You've got to give him the credit. It might have been a good pitch and it might have been a bad pitch. Sometimes a bad pitch goes for a pop-up."

The dramatic homer thwarted Baltimore's bid for a second series sweep in five years and snapped a winning string that began during the end of the season and carried through a three-game kayo of Minnesota in the American League pennant playoffs.

"All they did today was stay alive," Weaver said. "We're looking for a winning streak of one game now. I'd prefer to get it tomorrow."

Arkansas State Continues Hold On Top Grid Ranking

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas State continues to show the way among the small college football powers in the weekly Associated Press poll but the Indians' domination is threatened by Montana.

For the fourth straight week Arkansas State held the top spot. Montana, however, managed to draw more first-place votes in balloting.

Arkansas State, now 4-0 after its 21-14 victory over Trinity, Tex., last weekend, collected only five first-place votes along with six for runnerup for 269 points.

Montana, with 242 points, received six first-place votes to remain second after whipping Idaho 44-26 last weekend.

North Dakota State advanced from fourth to third. Texas A&I fifth a week ago, and Tampa, No. 8 last week, were tied for fourth this week.

Tennessee maintained its sixth ranking with Delaware moving to seventh and Western Kentucky advancing to eighth. Southern Illinois remained ninth.

Akron, third a week ago, completed the top 10. Eastern Michigan, seventh last week, dropped out of the top 10.

The top twenty teams, with first place votes in parentheses and total points tabulated on a list:

1. Arkansas St. (5)	269
2. Montana (6)	242
3. No. Dakota St.	182
4. Texas A&I (2)	177
5. Tampa (1)	177
6. Tennessee State	153
7. Delaware (1)	111
8. W. Kentucky (1)	106
9. Southern Illinois	91
10. Akron	86
11. Abilene Christian	50
12. Wofford	49
13. Central Mo.	45
14. S.W. Louisiana	45
15. Troy State	43
16. Alcorn A&M	40
17. Wittenberg	40
18. E. Michigan	28
19. St. Olaf	26
20. No. Michigan	25

SPORTS Highlights

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns and their Sunday rivals the Detroit Lions are pretty even in their offensive records and both have 3-1 season marks, but where defense is concerned, the Lions far outshine the rubbery Browns.

Detroit is third in overall offense—second in rushing and eighth in passing. And the Lions also are second in total defense—third against passing and second against rushing.

The Browns are fourth in overall offense, ninth in rushing and third in passing.

DENVER (AP) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis is scheduled to be released Friday from the Denver Veterans Administration Hospital where he has been undergoing treatment of an emotional disorder since last May, his wife said Wednesday.

Mrs. Martha Louis said they plan to spend the weekend in Las Vegas, Nev., before returning here to make their home. Her husband, she added, will continue with out-patient treatment at the hospital.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers lost their first National Basketball Association regular season game to Buffalo, 107-92, Wednesday night, prompting Coach Bill Fitch to quip, "A game like this tells me why show people take their shows on the road before coming home."

"We had a lot to do with them beating us," Fitch said. "We passed poorly, rebounded poorly and our floor moves were poor, but this may be our worst performance for some time to come."

U.S. Pro-Am Opens Today At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eighty-two, two-man golf teams tee-off today in the $35,000 U.S. Pro Amateur Golf Tournament at the 6,609-yard Hakewah Country Club course.

The 54-hole, best all tourney will mean $5,000 to each professional golfer on a winning team. The tournament will run through Saturday. Par is 35-36 — 71.

The tournament, now in its 11th year, started here in 1960 and has been held at Port St. Lucie, Fla., for the past two years.

The tournament was switched to Florida to avoid conflict with regular Professional Golf Association tour tournaments.

Only half of last year's winning team will participate. Pro Bob Murphy will not compete but former national amateur champion Steve Melnyk will be paired with Bob Barbarosa.

The pro field will include Frank Beard, leading PGA money winner in 1969; Gay Brewer; Don Essig; Marty Fleckman; Al Balding; former PGA champion Walter Burkemo and Dutch Harrison.

Beard, from Louisville, Ky., will play with his halfbrother, Ralph Beard.

YMCA Notes And News

PICKAWAY COUNTY HISTORY

The YMCA will again offer a course on "The History Of Pickaway County". As local history is to national history, what micro-biology is to biology, we are going to take a sort of microscopic look at the cell structure of our nation. This is a survey of Pickaway County and Circleville. The founding of the several townships will be briefly discussed and the development of the more significant communities will be quickly outlined.

We will talk about some famous citizens; Caleb Atwater, the Jones Family, General William Sooyes Smith and Floyd Bartley; about the Circle and the squaring of it; about mound builders and Indians; about the great fire of 1834 and the riot of 1861. Most important of all, the members of the class will have a chance to talk and exchange ideas.

If you are interested in Logan and Logan Elm, we will talk about it. If you want to locate Genoa or Yellowbud, Mutton Jerk or Palestine, we'll help you. If you think local history is worth preserving, come and join us. We can learn something from the experience.

The instructor in this course, W. W. Higgins, has an M.A. in History from Ohio University, where he wrote a thesis on "Ohio and the Mexican War." He has taught at Circleville

High School for 15 years and has spent about 12 years doing research on Presbyterianism in Circleville.

This class will begin on Wednesday, October 28 at the YMCA Building, 151 East Franklin at 7:00 P.M. Advanced reservation will be required for this informative course. Additional information and applications can be obtained by calling the YMCA Office at 474-8621.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS
The YMCA's Fall 70 Informal Education Classes, starting the week of Oct. 26 will include a new class — "Christmas Holiday Decorations" and will be taught by Mrs. Willson Leist. This class is free to members of the YMCA.

Members and Non-Members taking the 8-week course will make the following: 18" wreath made of dried materials such as nuts, pods, cones, seeds and sliced Hedge Apples, mounted on cardboard with linoleum paste.

Wall hanging covered with gay colored burlap and decorated with nuts, cones, pods and items of your own choice;

Small styrofoam wreath covered with bright ribbons, wheat, nuts, etc. May be used to encircle a fat candle, or placed on a small wall area.

Nut Tree, Nuts, cones, seeds, pods, bows mounted on a 12" cone. May be placed on coffee table or TV.

Christmas Door Swag. Made of fresh evergreens, holly, painted pods, and bows. Can be used indoors or out.

Mail reservations to the YMCA, Box 386, Circleville, Ohio or call 474-8621. Members please notify the "Y" if you plan to take this complimentary course.

In this category are revenue sharing with the states and cities, draft reform, higher education including a revision of student loan programs, and reform of the federal grant-in-aid system.

John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's consultant on domestic matters, charged Wednesday Congress had been bogged down in a lot of unproductive debate at the expense of Nixon legislation.

"There's been a lot of politics played by the Democratic leadership and a lot of things have been bottled up because they didn't want to go into this November election giving the Republicans a chance to show progress," Ehrlichman said in a Metromedia Radio News interview.

He predicted, as have congressional leaders, that little of consequence will come from the lame-duck session.

However, the pre-election session was not a complete wash-out for the White House.

Earlier this week Nixon sent a tough anticrime bill aimed at organized crime and terrorist bombings.

Legislation was enacted to set up a separate corporation to run the postal service; provide $3.1 billion to bolster mass transit lines; extend the voting rights act for five years; broaden unemployment compensation; increase taxes on airline flight to finance a $16 billion program of airport improvement, and provide $24.6 billion for an expansion education program.

Spiritual Attainment Mission Set

The committee on evangelism at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church is sponsoring a Spiritual Attainment Mission in Good Shepherd Church.

The opening Sunday will be Oct. 18. The program is built around St. Paul's courageous endeavor toward spiritual attainment and is stated in this text, "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus," Philippians 3:14. Lithographed inserts with appropriate messages will be placed in each Sunday's bulletin for an eight week period. A ladder of spiritual attainment will be built by worshippers with a new rung being added each Sunday. The rungs will be centered around the following themes in the quest for spiritual attainment: preparation, examination, confession, devotion, consecration, commission and evangelism.

Pastor Eugene Flowers will preach sermons that are appropriate for each Sunday's theme. A large ladder in the form of the cross will be displayed in the sanctuary.

Realtors Endorse Brooks-Yates Levy

During the October meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors held Tuesday evening at Pickaway Arms, the Brooks-Yates School and Workshop was endorsed.

Guest speaker for the evening was Eugene O'Dell, Director of Education for the Ohio

Association of Real Estate Boards. O'Dell highlighted the "Light the Night" program to combat crime, which will be given publicity locally during October and November.

He also outlined the various educational programs being offered as a part of the 10-year blueprint for professional status.

QUARANTINE AREA — The area of Monroe and Jackson Twp. marked on the map is under quarantine because of the discovery of swine herds infected with cholera there. Hogs destined for slaughter may be moved anywhere within the state or across state lines with a federal permit. Breeding and feeding stock may be moved from the area to points within the state with a permit. However, breeding and feeding stock cannot be transported across state lines. The quarantine will be lifted 30 days after the last infected herd in the area was destroyed. Pickaway County Agricultural Agent George Hamrick today warned swine producers in Pickaway County to "stay home." The county agent emphasized that one of the best means of transportation of the virus that causes the disease is on the feet of people who have been on infected farms or on the wheels of vehicles on infected farms.
